German Delegate Pleads For Peace At League Meet

POWERS TOLD RHINE ARMY IS JUSTIFIED

Council Approves Resolu- tion Declaring Viola- tion of Treaty

LONDON, March 19.—(UP)—Germany will reject a proposal by the Locarno powers to establish a demilitarized zone, internationally policed, on German soil pending a final settlement of the Rhineland dispute, Joachim von Ribbentrop, German representative, told German correspondents tonight.

LONDON, March 19.—(UP)—Germany defended its Rhineland occupation before the league council and the world today and pleaded for a new deal that would bring peace and friendship to Europe.

Joachim von Ribbentrop, Adolf Hitler's personal advisor on foreign affairs, first German to take part in a league meeting in 2 1-2 years, stated the German case eloquently.

He spoke, too, for peace. "The German government complied with the invitation to attend the council meeting to help clarify the present situation," he said. "Germany decided to come to the council meeting only after misgivings—among other reasons, in view of the fact that Germany is a non-member."

Hopes For Peace
"Germany accepted in hope it would lead to a turn in Europe's destiny."

At the end, he appealed to the council to realize its responsibility for leading Europe to a better future.

The council, after the speech, voted formally that Germany infringed the Locarno and Versailles treaties by its Rhineland occupation, and left the crisis to the Locarno powers—Great Britain, France, Belgium, Italy and Germany—so that they could seek agreement on means of negotiating a peace consolidation program for Europe.

Ribbentrop argued that the Franco-Russian alliance invalidated the Locarno treaty, and that the treaty had ceased to exist. He justified the Rhineland occupation on that ground, "Germany spurns the charge as unfair that she deliberately repudiated the Locarno treaty," he said.

The council passed the Franco-Belgian resolution declaring the treaty violation by unanimous vote. Joachim von Ribbentrop, German representative, voted "no" but his vote was not counted. Neither were the French and Belgian votes.

"The German government and the whole German people are convinced that the resolution which the council has just adopted will

GLAB MURDER CASE EVIDENCE ATTACKED

LOS ANGELES, March 19.—(UP)—Defense Attorney S. S. Hahn renewed his attack on the state's seven-year-old circumstantial evidence case against Hazel Belford Glab today in a final plea for the superior court jury to acquit her on charges of slaying her third husband, John I. Glab, retired Cicero, Ill., druggist. Hahn claimed numerous discrepancies appeared in stories told by prosecution witnesses and dwelt in emphatic fashion upon the "frailty of human memory" after a 7-year lapse since the slaying. The case is expected to go to the jury before tonight. Deputy District Attorney Eugene Williams was to follow Hahn.

Police Called To Scatter Leaguers

LOS ANGELES, March 19.—(UP)—Forty members of the Public Works and Unemployed League scattered today upon the arrival of a police squad, called to rout them from the South Flower street headquarters of the Los Angeles County Relief Administration. A Negro led the group which was understood to have entertained various grievances against the LACRA.

WESTMINSTER BLOCS OPPOSE MAN. HURT IN RELIEF PLANS ACCIDENT. DIES OF ROOSEVELT

INQUEST was pending today at Winbigler's funeral home in the death yesterday of William E. Trettin, 38, Iowa street, Westminster, who died from internal injuries and skull fracture suffered in an automobile crash as he was en route to visit his ailing wife at Fullerton General hospital Tuesday evening. Trettin was Orange county's fourteenth traffic victim of 1936.

Trettin, whose car turned over in the crash on West Seventeenth street, at Newland road, died at St. Joseph hospital. Four other persons were injured in the accident.

Robert Orender, 38, suffered fractured collar-bone and Mrs. Orender, 29, fractured wrist, cuts and bruises, while their seven-year-old son, Robert Jr., was uninjured, according to reports from St. Joseph hospital, to which they were taken. The Orenders, of Westminster, were forced to postpone an eastern trip on which they were scheduled to leave today, it was said.

According to Mrs. Gladys Heath, 31, 206 Van Buren street, Midway City, driver of the second car, who suffered cuts and bruises and was given first aid at Johnson Emergency hospital, Westminster, she made a boulevard stop at Seventeenth street, as she was traveling south of Newland, and had entered the intersection when Trettin's car with Trettin driving crashed into the right side of her car. Trettin, investigation revealed, was going east on West Seventeenth. The Heath car was hurled into a ditch as Trettin's car turned over. Mrs. Heath said she was riding alone. Mrs. Trettin has been a patient at the Fullerton General hospital for the past two weeks, following a

SAN JUAN SWALLOWS UPHOLD TRADITION BY RETURNING TO MISSION ON SCHEDULE TODAY

By MARAH ADAMS
GUIDED as though by unseen forces, the swallows of historic San Juan Capistrano mission arrived today, following a tradition which is said to go back to the days when the mission was built by Franciscan fathers, 159 years ago.

Why the swallows come to the mission on March 19, which is St. Joseph's day, and why they come on October 23, which is St. John's day, has never been determined. Where they go when they leave, is an equal mystery for their course has never been charted. No scientific explanation of the birds' accuracy has even been found. San Juan Capistrano residents, however, attach a religious significance to their flights. While scouts, always sent ahead by the swallows arrived at the mission yesterday and the day previous, the first of the main flock, appeared just at dawn this

Organist Is Detained In Murder Quiz

Youthful Suspect Charges Man Killed Wife in Holdup Hoax

LOS ANGELES, March 19.—(UP)—Samuel T. Whittaker, 60-year-old retired organist, was taken into technical custody today by police when James Fagan Culver, 23, held as a suspect in the death of Mrs. Ethel E. Whittaker, told police that the retired musician had slain his wife.

In an asserted statement made public by police, Culver, a recent arrival here from Evansville, Ind., accused Whittaker of shooting his wife following a quarrel.

The elderly organist was taken to police headquarters from his cot in a Huntington Park sanitarium following Culver's statement, police reported. He denied the charge but was said to have admitted knowing the youth prior to the time he was picked up as a suspect in the slaying.

Detective Lieutenant Thad Brown reported that Culver told him he staged a "fake holdup" to give Mrs. Whittaker a thrill.

The officer quoted Culver as saying that he fired at Whittaker under a pre-arranged plan, not at Mrs. Whittaker as the husband reported to police following the slaying.

In returning the fire, Whittaker shot him three times, the youth charged.

"To prove it's the truth," the youth told Brown, "I'll take you where the gun is."

He led the detective to his lodging house adjoining the hotel where Mrs. Whittaker was slain and there pulled a .32-caliber "belly gun" from a mattress. Three bullets had been fired from it while autopsy report showed that Mrs. Whittaker had been shot four times, police said.

LOBBY COMMITTEE CALLED "POLE-CAT"

WASHINGTON, March 19.—(UP)—J. A. Arnold, head of an organization seeking to make the nation "tax conscious," leaped from his chair at the senate lobby committee hearing today to charge "this is a pole-cat committee."

Arnold had been listed by the committee as obtaining a $1000 contribution from former Treasury Secretary Andrew W. Mellon.

Chairman Hugo L. Black, D., Ala., threatened to submit Arnold's "pole-cat" charge to the senate "for action."

"We're not going to have any talk like that," he exclaimed. "Well, I didn't start this," Arnold mumbled, taking his seat.

Other contributors listed included: William Wrigley Jr., Chicago, $100; E. Parmlee Prentice, New York, $1500; W. R. Coe, New York, $500; Charles A. Monroe, New York, $500; Henry D. Sharpe, Providence, R. I., $250; and the Judson Stone-McCormick estates, Chicago, $500.

EXCHANGE TO HANDLE OWN FRUIT LOOMS

ORGANIZATION of a new fruit marketing agency to handle the Orange county valencia crop neared today following a meeting last night of the Orange County Citrus Growers' association at Anaheim.

The new organization, if formed, would be separate from the California Fruit Growers' Exchange, if that appears necessary, according to William Wallop, member of the growers' association board of directors.

"We are going to handle Orange county fruit in Orange county," Mr. Wallop said. "If that means cutting loose from the exchange we'll have to do that. This was practically the unanimous decision of the board."

The association met nearly two weeks ago with representatives of the exchange and the Mutual Orange Distributors and asked those organizations to present a plan under which Orange county might obtain a fairer deal.

Two days were allowed for the groups to report back, that period having expired last Monday, without bringing a suggestion, Mr. Wallop said today.

At present Orange county has four district exchange representatives out of 26 California Fruit Growers exchange representatives. This county produces 55 per cent of the marketable valencia fruit, which last year constituted the major portion of the county's $29,948,470 citrus crop.

"We don't want to pull away from the exchange, but we must have a better method of handling our fruit," Mr. Wallop said today. "Unless we can work out a more satisfactory method of co-operation with the exchange, we shall be forced for self protection to set up a marketing organization which will be subject to control by our branch of the industry."

Meeting with the group last night was a local commercial juice canner who explained what the grower group could accomplish if it undertakes handling the juice problem.

The next move of the association will be a conference with managers of the four Orange county district exchanges. Following this a mass meeting is planned for growers who will be given the facts back of the movement, and whose support will be sought, Mr. Wallop said.

Then unless the present exchange houses can be induced to join the movement independent houses will be found as a nucleus for the new marketing organization.

The present unrest among Orange county growers is believed to represent the most serious threat at the California Fruit Growers' exchange since its organization more than 40 years ago. The central office annually markets about 78 per cent of the California citrus crop. Last year it handled fruit worth a delivered value at wholesale markets of $106,963,196. Values of this fruit f. o. b. packing houses was $72,399,350.

STUMBLING TONGUE CONVICTS DRIVER

SAN JOSE, Cal., March 19.—(UP)—Testimony of a Palo Alto physician that William Mason, San Francisco longshoreman, was unable to say, "around the rugged rock the ragged rascal ran" was credited today with an important part in Mason's conviction on charges of negligent homicide.

Superior Judge William F. James of Santa Clara county found Mason guilty on the charge and not guilty on a manslaughter charge last night.

The case arose from the death of Belmont Beasley, 35, of San Francisco. He was killed when Mason's automobile skidded and crashed into a power pole at Palo Alto December 29, 1935.

200,000 PERSONS DRIVEN FROM HOMES; BUILD DIKE TO PROTECT WASHINGTON

FLOOD SITUATION AT A GLANCE

Death toll 102 and mounting. President Roosevelt reports 200,000 homeless; asks for $3,000,000 Red Cross fund. Fourteen states from New England to Virginia and west to Ohio affected. Ohio river flood sweeps down from Pittsburgh, striking Wheeling, W. Va., where 16 are known dead and scores missing. Central Pennsylvania and southern New York cities still badly flooded. Whole Connecticut river valley in New England flooded and conditions getting worse. Other rivers also out of banks. Potomac floods part of Washington, D. C.; government buildings in danger.

By UNITED PRESS

MORE THAN 100 persons were dead, 200,000 homeless and the toll was mounting hourly as roaring floods swept onward today through 14 states from Maine to Virginia and westward to Ohio. The United Press shortly after noon tabulated 102 deaths. New reports added to the toll constantly. Some places still were cut off from communication. Others were just beginning to feel the effect of the surging rivers that swept homes and factories to destruction.

President Roosevelt postponed his vacation trip to Florida and called upon the nation to raise $3,000,000 immediately for Red Cross relief. He said 200,000 persons were homeless today and the number might be far greater by tomorrow.

Even as he issued his appeal, steam shovels and 3000 men were working feverishly to throw up a dike within half a mile of the White House to keep back the rampaging Potomac. The famous cherry trees along the tidal basin were under water and officials feared the flood might reach the new government buildings in downtown Washington.

Sixteen were dead and scores unaccounted for in Wheeling, W. Va., industrial city of 70,000, which caught the full force of the Ohio river flood. Two bridges were feared in danger of collapse and were closed.

Twenty thousand were estimated homeless in the Wheeling area. Steubenville and some other flooded cities feared typhoid epidemics. Wellsville, O., was under water. Steel plants were closed throughout the great industrial region. Cities on down the Ohio valley

Philadelphia began to feel the flood when the Delaware and Schuylkill rivers rapidly overflowed low sections. In New England, the Connecticut valley's fertile farmlands and industrial cities from Vermont to Southern Connecticut were flooded. Breaking of a dam loosed a 15-foot wall of water in the Blackstone valley. Hartford, Conn., faced an imminent power failure.

PRESIDENT ASKS NATION FOR $3,000,000 TO AID SUFFERERS

WASHINGTON, March 19.—(UP)—President Roosevelt today called on the nation to contribute generously to the Red Cross for flood relief, and declared all agencies of government had been coordinated in the task of relieving distress and preventing loss of life and property.

A resolution calling upon the president to transfer $3,000,000 from relief funds to the American Red Cross for use in flood stricken areas was introduced by Sen. James J. Davis, R., Pa.

In a proclamation, he asked contributions of at least $3,000,000 for the Red Cross, saying 200,000 persons had been driven from their homes in 11 states, with indications the number would be increased materially.

There was a dramatic tone at a special press conference, attended by members of his special flood committee headed by Secretary of War George H. Dern, when the president emphasized that everything possible was being done by the federal government to relieve distress.

He read latest reports from the flood area to Maj. Gen. Edward M. Markham, chief of army engineers, and indicated chief needs in the flooded areas were clothing, food, medicine and housing facilities.

The president said in every flood locality the CCC was working to rescue people, patrol streets, clear away debris and guard property.

Relief workers, he added, were being used in every community and their task is cleaning up and building dykes.

As soon as the water goes down, he said, the WPA will assist in restoring water supplies, clearing out sewers, helping restore power and telephone systems, making highways passable and constructing temporary bridges.

After a conference with department heads appointed to deal with the flood problem, President Roosevelt issued the following proclamation:

"To the people of the United States:

"Flood waters raging through 11 states have driven 200,000 people from their homes, with every indication that this number may be materially increased within the next 24 hours. In this grave emergency,

WASHINGTON, March 19.—(UP)—Raging flood waters of the Potomac swept down upon the capital today while thousands of cars raised dikes to protect the nation's historic shrines and million-dollar federal offices.

FILM ACTRESS AIRS MARRIED LIFE IN SUIT

It was a Hollywood marriage and it had the usual Hollywood ending. With Walter L. Coffey, of Santa Ana, former film actor, and Santa Ana, Muriel, still an extra, she is contesting for a divorce today in Superior Judge James L. Allen's court.

Both were working in the films before they wed at Anaheim October 26, 1931, and their marital bickering, touching at four parts of separation before it finally went on the rocks, last September 21.

Muriel, while telling Judge Allen today how nastily she had been treated, explained some of the Hollywood caste system, speaking socially rather than technically. The social crusts and layers extend even into the ranks of the extras, she revealed.

There are three grades of extras, the $15 group that wear evening clothes in front of the camera; the $10 group that wear smart business or street clothes, fairly close up, and the rear rank or mob extras, who get $7.50 per day. She was one of the mob, she said.

She couldn't get much work, because there are 20,000 extras registered in Hollywood, she said. She asks the court to award her $75 per month alimony, explaining that she is not in good health.

Her husband drank heavily, and told her he didn't care whether she lived with him or left him; either way was all right with him, she testified.

They lived at Beverly Hills, when they were married. Coffey being employed by an oil company. She said he lost his job there and he later was employed by power company in Tulare county, subsequently being transferred to Santa Ana, where he now lives.

Coffey, in his cross-examination, claims his wife deserted him, that she was a filthy house-keeper, would not get breakfast for him, and laid abed until 10 or 11 a. m. She wouldn't live in the San Joaquin valley with him, he stated. His wife denied these charges, except that when she was not feeling well and he was not working, she didn't feel it was necessary to get up and get his breakfast, she said.

"He called me a big mouth, and said I was a fishwife," she testified, causing a group of her girl friends in the courtroom to giggle. Attorneys Simon and Garbus, of Los Angeles, represent Mrs. Coffey in the case. Harry C. Westover, Santa Ana, is counsel for Coffey.

Taking eggs from a falcon's nest in England, was an offense punishable by a year in prison and a heavy fine during the reign of Henry VII.

Fears Receipt Of Poor Report Card; Boy Leaves Home

Because he feared he would receive a "poor" report card, Harry C. Vincent Jr., 13, of 218 North Emily street, Anaheim, disappeared yesterday. No trace of the missing boy has been found, although a widespread search is under way.

The boy is described as being four feet, six inches in height, weighs 85 pounds, has light hair and blue eyes and was wearing blue overalls, purple shirt with zipper front and tan oxfords when he left on his bicycle yesterday.

CLAIMS SANTA ANA FRIENDLIEST CITY

Santa Ana is the cleanest and friendliest city between Los Angeles and San Diego, in the opinion of Mrs. Madge Hopping of Indiana, who wrote a letter to the Santa Ana Chamber of Commerce asking for detailed information regarding the city.

The writer said she had passed through Santa Ana several times, and that the city always had impressed her as being the cleanest and friendliest of any community between Los Angeles and San Diego.

She asked that information be sent to Oscar Mott, of Culver, Indiana, who desires to locate in California.

DAMAGE SUIT HEARD IN SUPERIOR COURT

Trial of a $50,897 damage suit brought by Frank H. Porter of Fullerton, against Mr. and Mrs. Frank D. Childress, also of that city, was in progress today before Superior Judge George K. Scovel.

The suit resulted from an automobile crash on highway 101 between Fullerton and La Habra February 17, 1935, when cars driven by Childress and Winston Porter, cousin of the plaintiff, collided just south of La Habra. Frank Porter suffered internal and other injuries.

Winston Porter was the first witness summoned to the stand today, and described the accident and the events immediately following.

they the homeless are turning to our great national relief agency, the American Red Cross, for food, clothing, shelter and medical care.

"To enable the Red Cross to meet this immediate obligation and to continue to carry the burden of caring for these unfortunate men, women and children, until their homes are restored and they can return to normal living conditions, it is necessary that a minimum relief fund of $3,000,000 be raised as promptly as possible.

"As president of the United States and as president of the American Red Cross, I am therefore, urging our people to contribute so that sufficient funds may be available for the relief of these thousands of your homeless fellow citizens. I am confident that in the face of this great need your response will be as immediate and as generous as has always been the case when the Red Cross has acted as your agent in the relief of human suffering.

Police News

The owner of a Ford truck, abandoned since Saturday at Sixth and French, was being sought by city police today, following its discovery by Officers C. V. Adams and Charles Neer. The license number, 1636, not yet filed at Sacramento, is 5-P-5844, officers said.

L. C. Sheffield, 711 McFadden street, told City Officer L. H. Nicholson yesterday that a small roadster, operated by a man who appeared to be drunk, smashed into his car, parked at Borchard and Main, and disappeared without stopping. The roadster was described as being without turtle back and with two hub caps missing. It headed toward Anaheim.

Charged with issuing a bank check with intent to defraud, Fred W. Bechtold, 30, taxi driver of 269 Cypress drive, Laguna Beach, was jailed yesterday by Officer Bergey of Huntington Beach. City Judge Charles P. Patton of Huntington Beach set bail at $500.

A milk thief has been helping himself to a quart of milk every morning at 4 a. m. in the 806-block of East Second street, a Santa Ana police officer said today. Officers will watch the area, they said.

The bicycle stolen from Tommy Shoen, 913 Cypress, Tuesday night while he was at the carnival, Fourth and Garfield, was found by Officers Hunter Leach and F. L. Grouard last night. It had been returned to the carnival location and abandoned—minus the seat and post. A second bicycle, owner unknown, was found by the same officers last night, abandoned in the 900-block of East Third, and taken to the station.

City Police Officer W. B. Moreland and L. H. Nicholson said they believed it was a 22 caliber bullet which pierced a window of the Orange Avenue Christian church last night. Jed Nelson, 1129 Orange avenue, reported the window broken.

It was not a re-enactment of Civil war days. However, Mrs. E. I. Ault, 702 West Third street, did report to city police yesterday that she found a cannon ball in her yard. Officers investigated and determined the cannon ball to be a "shot" used in athletic contests, probably at the nearby high school. High school officials will be called today to help in identification of the shot.

A gas tank cap was stolen from the car of F. S. Gordon, 320 Cypress, while it was parked at Fourth and Broadway last night, he reported to city police.

driving out the swallows who have usurped the nests. The intruders have been manifesting great uneasiness for the past few days as if they, too, knew of the expected coming of the owners.

This morning while camera newsmen filmed the flight of the birds and their cries were broadcast through a microphone in a nationwide broadcast, children in the parish school greeted the birds with a song written for them by the late Father St. John O'Sullivan, who restored much of the mission during his 23-year pastorate there.

Childish voices in sweet, high trebles sang their welcome, "Good Morning Mr. Swallow," as the broadcast was begun. Ramon Yorba, who is 77 years old today and who was baptized at San Juan Capistrano mission on March 19, has lived at the mission since he was eight years of age. He has watched the swallows every year since that time. Ramon believes the birds winter in Yucatan.

"Always the same procedure," he said, speaking to thousands of listeners as well as those filling the mission gardens, "first the scouts who never alight, and the not survive the test of history," he said.

There was no bitterness apparent. The resolution was passed mainly as a formality and matter of record. Chile abstained from voting and Ecuador absented herself.

Von Ribbentrop said that Germany's occupation of the demilitarized Rhineland is justified by the Franco-Russian pact of mutual assistance. He pleaded for a new deal that would bring peace and friendship to Europe.

After the vote on the resolution, the council adjourned. It called a meeting of the committee of 18 on the Ethiopian war—the council without Italy—for tomorrow, and decided to hold another session after the meeting of the 13, to decide on further procedure in the Rhineland dispute.

The Locarno powers agreed in principle on a three-point British-Franco-Belgian plan for handling the Rhineland dispute. It must be approved by the respective governments. The British cabinet met late today to consider it. At today's first meeting of the council, Von Ribbentrop, Adolf Hitler's personal adviser on foreign affairs and first German to take part in a league meeting in 2½ years, stated the German case eloquently.

Donations will be received at Dr. Wehrly's office, 624 North Main street, or may be left at the First National Bank with Harry Hansen, treasurer of the chapter.

Dr. Wehrly said that the national organization has not asked the chapters to raise funds but has several donations have already been made locally.

HERMAN ZABEL IN FLORIDA TO GET PRISONERS

Herman Zabel, head of the sheriff's office identification bureau, was to be in Florida today to appear at hearing tomorrow morning before Florida's governor in connection with extraditing M. R. McKinstry and P. R. Osborne to California for prosecution on charges of grand theft. Zabel left last night by airplane from Glendale.

As soon as preliminary arrangements are made for transportation of the men, Sheriff Logan Jackson plans to go to the southern state to take charge of their return, according to a request he made before the board of supervisors, asking permission to leave the state. Complaints charge the prisoners with theft of stocks and bonds from Mrs. Mary Towle of Santa Ana, two years ago. Since their apprehension in Florida, the men have sought every legal means to forestall their return to California, but the Florida supreme court turned them down. When Zabel and Jailer "Budge" Lacy went south a few months ago to bring back the men, they were stalemated, as the men, who had agreed to return to California voluntarily, charged their minds.

Basic, built-in values are winning outstanding leadership for the Studebaker Six-Passenger Six. It's a really big car, yet it costs only a few dollars more per month to buy than the lowest priced cars. Actually it costs less to operate. In the recent Gilmore-Yosemite Economy Run, where Studebakers scored smashing victories in the two price classes in which they were entered, the Six-Passenger Six delivered 24.27 miles per gallon of gasoline—no oil or water added during the 352-mile grind—proof positive that it costs less to operate. Check this big-value car against any and all competition. Ride in it. Drive it. It sells itself.

COUNTY OFFER IS DRAWN UP BY ENGINEERS

Prospects for a settlement of the suit filed by James Irvine, Orange county rancher, against water interests in the upper reaches of the Santa Ana river to enjoin them from spreading water which otherwise would come into Orange county, appeared brighter today than ever before.

All indications are that an agreement will be reached in the near future, the latest indication being that the Orange county offer has been drawn up and will be submitted to the upper river interests in the near future.

The offer from Orange county specifies the point at which this county would like to have the flow of the river measured and how much water should be passing the point before spreading operations are started in the upper river area.

Director Roy Browning of the Orange County Water district, who is engineer for Irvine, announced yesterday afternoon that the report has been prepared containing this county's offer for settlement of the suit. Because Paul Bailey, consulting engineer for the water board, will be gone for a week, no action will be taken until he returns. The water board wants to check the figures with Bailey before submitting the offer to the upper county interests.

The upper county interests, being represented by attorneys and engineers, have submitted a proposal to Orange county, which, although not what this county wants, is a concession over previous offers. Browning said today that he is favorably impressed with the attitudes of the Tri-County Water Conservation association and Mill Creek groups in the negotiations.

BALLARD SERVICES TO BE HELD FRIDAY

Funeral services will be held in First Methodist church, tomorrow at 3:30 p. m. for Mrs. Malinda J. Ballard, 80, who died yesterday at the home of her son Perry Ballard, in Culver City. The Rev. George Warner, pastor of the church will officiate with interment to follow in Fairhaven cemetery. Arrangements are in charge of the L. F. Utter mortuary of Los Angeles.

Mrs. Ballard, who had been in poor health for some time, was visiting her son at the time of her death. She had been a resident of Santa Ana for more than 25 years. She is survived by her husband L. M. Ballard, a son Roy, and one daughter, Mrs. L. M. Randall, all of Santa Ana, and the son at whose home she died.

AUTOIST ARRESTED AS DRUNK DRIVER

Even if you slow your car down to a turtle pace, you may land in the county jail if you're at the wheel and intoxicated. Charles E. Parsons, 27, Route 4, Box 5, Santa Ana, was given that information at 1:50 a. m. today when officers Harry Pritchard and L. C. Snodgrass arrested him in the 1900-block of South Main street, and charged him with driving while drunk.

"Parsons was driving very slowly and cautiously," the officers reported, "but in spite of that, he was zig-zagging about the roadway."

A doctor's examination report declared Parsons was markedly intoxicated. He was booked at county jail after admitting to the doctor he drank two quarts of beer.

Fri., March 20, 7:30 p. m., De Molay put on their degree work. No regular work for F. & A. M. No. 241, but all Master Masons are urged to attend.

BOARD OF SUPERVISORS IS CRITICIZED FOR ADOPTING LAW LICENSING GUN CLUBS

A resolution scathingly criticizing the board of supervisors for having adopted a license ordinance which he charged permitted waste of large quantities of water by gun clubs, was introduced by Director William Mauerhan at a meeting of the Orange County Water District yesterday afternoon.

Introduction of the resolution may reopen the drawn out battle between gun clubs and other interests in the county regarding the use of water for duck ponds, it is believed.

Mauerhan declared that around $8000 will or has been spent on the Santa Ana river in Orange county this year in an attempt to save water, and that it is not right that the license ordinance permit the gun clubs to waste water in quantities larger than ever before.

Members of the board of supervisors, Mauerhan said, had told him that the license ordinance was sanctioned by the Farm Bureau, which led the fight against the gun clubs. He charged that this is not true.

His resolution, if adopted, would put the water board on record as protesting against the license ordinance. It provided that the water board take action to see that the license ordinance be set aside. It declared that use of water by the gun clubs has been declared non-beneficial use of water by the state supreme court. It asked that the flood control office be empowered to install checking stations to check the amount of water used by the gun clubs.

Mauerhan said that but one of the gun clubs in the county keeps track of the amount of water they use. The license ordinance, he said, for $25 gives gun clubs the right to spread over the entire pond areas nine inches of water. He claimed that the ordinance does not specify acre inches or whether the amount is annual or not. For this reason, he said, there is no limit on the amount of water the gun clubs can pump. With the overdraft on the Santa Ana river basin, he said, it is a serious matter to permit the gun clubs to continue to waste large quantities of water.

The resolution was taken under advisement by the water board, members of which expressed the opinion that the document covered so much territory that it would be better to study the matter further before acting on it.

Attorney A. W. Rutan expressed the opinion that the water district has no legal right to enter into a scrap with the gun clubs.

COUNTY WATER DISTRICT TO SEEK SOLUTION OF SEWAGE RECLAMATION PROBLEM HERE

A definite and serious effort to secure the cooperation of all interested parties in solving the sewage reclamation problem in Orange county will be undertaken by the Orange County Water District.

The decision was reached at a meeting of the water board here yesterday afternoon when the board adopted a motion put by Director William Wallop which put the water board on record as taking the situation in a new move to solve the problem which has been hanging fire here for more than a year.

Wallop pointed out that a decision on whether Metropolitan Water District water shall be brought in here for irrigation of farm lands must be decided in the near future, and the sewage reclamation problem should be out of the way first.

In the motion adopted, the water board agreed to take over the active investigation of the problem, providing that the county wide sewage reclamation committee liquidate the experimental plant in Santa Ana. J. E. Lewis, chairman of the county committee, urged the water board to take over the problem and to act as a clearing house for information on the project.

Director W. C. Mauerhan of the water board declared that cities in the outfall sewer district are interested in and are willing to cooperate in working out a program for disposing of sewage from the cities and at the same time reclaim the water. The cities, he said, are willing to enter into an agreement to this effect.

A committee from the water board met with the cities to discuss the project recently. Director William Schumacher said that the cities were asked how much they would contribute if the water district takes the problem off their hands. He said the cities can save money under the new project, because they must dispose of their sewage anyway, and this costs money. He said that an $800,000 sewage disposal plant such as has been suggested would make the few hundred inches of water saved quite expensive as far as the cost affects the water saving.

No definite answer has been received from the cities as yet, it was announced, but activities are expected to start in the near future to work out a program whereby the cities and the water district will cooperate in working out a plan which will result in disposal of sewage from the cities and saving of the water.

The six leading airlines in the United States fly a total of about 166,000 miles a day.

UNDER GROUND WATER SUBJECT OF DISCUSSION AT CHAMBER FIGHT MAY END WITH MAN'S ARREST

Tentative plans for a county-wide conference to discuss underground water laws of the state and neighboring states under the sponsorship of the Agricultural Extension Service of the University of California, were announced at a meeting of the Orange County Water District yesterday afternoon.

The meeting planned, for which no date has yet been set, would be for consideration of the status of laws affecting use of underground waters, a matter of considerable importance to Orange county. At the meeting, which would be addressed by officials from Berkeley and for the state engineer's office, a summary of laws now in effect in California would be presented.

At yesterday's meeting, A. W. Rutan, consulting attorney for the water board, reported on his trip to Salt Lake City where he attended a conference on underground water laws. He received considerable legal information at the sessions, he said.

R. D. Flaherty, executive secretary of the Orange County Farm Bureau, and John Murdy, chairman of the Farm Bureau water committee, offered the aid of the Farm Bureau in arranging a conference on underground water laws. If such a meeting is held here, Flaherty expressed the opinion that the program for the meeting should be discussed here before being presented.

Willis Warner, president of the water board, will name a committee to meet with the Farm Bureau committee to discuss the program, the meeting being set for February 26 at 4 p. m.

ELUSIVENESS

WASHINGTON, March 18.—Only one man has ever successfully evaded ferocious congressional investigators. The laurel goes to Treasury Secretary Morgenthau. It is not yet clear why, but the revenue director of the new deal has been so elusive that he has been the subject of a committee on the tax bill. He is the first treasury secretary in history who has failed to testify about an administration tax program.

The official excuse is that he has been suffering from a gripe. Some of his pals say he is a "belle gripe." It appears to be a peculiar kind of gripe which fastidiously widens from hour to hour. For instance, the other morning an announcement was issued by the treasury outlining off his press conference. But two hours later his announcer advised a few friendly newsmen to drop in at the accustomed press conference room, for a tete-a-tete press conference. Later that day he intended to leave for Sea Island, Georgia, in the midst of the congressional tax dispute, to fight his fluctuating gripe with a rod and reel.

Not—The secretary's elusiveness has given rise to erroneous rumors that he is against the presidential tax program. He is very strong for it. What seems to have generated that weak feeling in his chest is the prospect that a congressional appearance would permit Republicans to go after him hard. He does not enjoy political debates.

SUPPRESSION

House writers of the bill have been equally elusive. They are doing all they can to avoid publicity.

At one time members of the subcommittee suddenly stopped giving out information about what they were doing. They said that Chairman Doughton had issued instructions to that effect.

Newsmen went after Doughton. He denied giving such an order. But even then his subcommittee members declined to believe it and continued to keep silent. It was not until newsmen forced Doughton to relent that the denial in the presence of two subcommittee members that they loosened up a little, but not much.

The significant thing behind all this seems to be that they would all like to pass the tax bill without anyone finding out about it. That being impossible, they are agreed on the strategy of attracting as little public attention to it as possible. That explains why the subject thus far has aroused so little interest. This is a campaign year.

ATTACK—

An enraged George Norris has advised TVA's directors to file a barrage of law suits against private power companies which unsuccessfully contested the legality of the New Deal experiment in the Tennessee Valley.

TVA can sue to recover damages for fees it paid to lawyers in defending the case in court, according to a confidential letter which

Mr. Norris has written to Director Lillenthal. Mr. Norris also contends that TVA can ask for repayment of the funds it would have received from 21 towns and cities if their applications for Uncle Sam's electricity had not been tied up by injunctions for more than a year. The senator argues further that cities deprived of lower rates may sue for the difference they paid to private companies during the period of litigation.

Mr. Norris, who lives modestly on his $10,000-a-year salary, isn't interested primarily in the money. As a legal strategist, he believes that a flock of unexpected legal embarrassments would keep the Edison Electric Institute so busy that it wouldn't have the time or money to harass the government's development of a rival power system. And nobody disputes Mr. Norris' knowledge of the law—or politics.

Tough—A violent PWA-WPA clash will be staged on Capitol Hill when President Roosevelt transmits his estimates for 1937 relief expenditures. A distracted congress will have to choose between Harry Hopkins' boomdoggling and Harold Ickes' stone-and-steel projects. It will resolve itself into a sectional battle behind the scenes. Western legislators who favor great dams, bridges and irrigation tracts will demand that at least $500,000,000 be turned over to Mr. Ickes. They have already fortified themselves by asking the Secretary of the Interior for a list of heavy construction jobs he would inaugurate in their states if he had the money.

Eastern members prefer the Hopkins kind of relief. There's no room for the Ickes type of projects in their districts, so they favor distribution of federal money for boomdoggling. They think that Mr. Ickes shows too much favoritism toward representatives of the wide open spaces. It's going to be a tough problem for FDR, especially as the West is his political homeland.

SHREWD—Conservative Republicans bitterly criticize Minority Leader "Charlie" McNary's leadership in the Senate, although not publicly. They think that the senator from Oregon is secretly making it easy and sure for FDR.

Mr. McNary has diplomatically stayed off several schemes for capitalizing Democratic blunders, including the Black committee's seizure of telegrams. He had advised impatient members on his side of the aisle that they cannot afford to tie up with some of the president's enemies—Hearst or the American Liberty League. The result has been that the lead in denouncing presidential policies has been taken by House G.O.P.-ers—Members Wadsworth, Snell and Taber of New York. There has been no concerted onslaught on the New Deal on Capitol Hill.

Nevertheless, back-stage attacks on Mr. McNary are tempered by the realization that he is the shrewdest in politics. Though he backs Mr. Borah, he doesn't think that the Idahoan can make the presidential grade. But he knows that no old-style G.O.P. can win next fall. Meanwhile, he's looking after "Charlie" McNary. And he got Bonneville Dam and a new state Capitol Building out of FDR.

Romantic Comedy, Sea Drama Now at Broadway Theater

Amusing adventures of a handsome and amorous ghost who accompanies a haunted Scottish castle to America are depicted in "The Ghost Goes West," gay romantic comedy featuring Robert Donat, which opens at the Broadway theater today with a second feature, "Dangerous Waters," starring Jack Holt.

Jean Parker, Eugene Pallette and other popular players are featured in the cast of "The Ghost Goes West." Donat, who made screen history in "The Count of Monte Cristo," plays the impoverished Scotch nobleman who sells his haunted castle to an American millionaire. The film reaches a climax when the millionaire, who plans to use the ghost to publicize his food products, holds a reception for the press in the ludicrously restored castle which had been transported to America.

"Dangerous Waters" is a swiftly paced adventure picture, made exciting by scenes of fire and mutiny at sea. Holt is the sea captain, a heroic figure who is helpless in the hands of his faithless bride, Grace Bradley. Action takes place on the high seas and the thrilling scenes include a terrific gale at sea.

Each Puff Less Acid

A LIGHT SMOKE

OF RICH, RIPE-BODIED TOBACCO

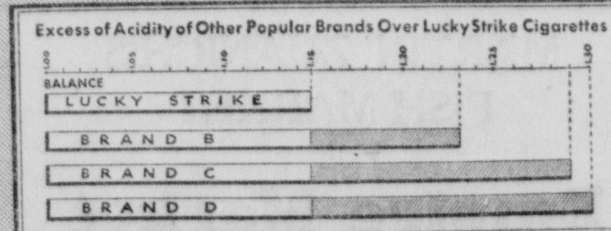

Luckies are less acid. For hundreds of years, tobaccos were selected—and gradations in flavor secured—by the roughest sort of rule of thumb methods. Hence, one of the most important innovations made by the Research Department was provision for chemical analysis of selected tobacco samples before purchase:

the resulting reports offer the professional buyer an accurate guide and reinforce his expert judgment based on the senses of sight, smell, and touch. Thus extreme variations toward acidity or alkalinity are precluded by such selection and subsequent blending.

BOYS RELEASED BY CARAVAN FIND SHELTER IN SANTA ANA

Angry mutterings which slipped from the lips of Ted Smith, 21, and his pal, H. A. McKenzie, 18, March 4 when each was given "the air" instead of the $20 salary check they expected, in San Francisco, at the end of a truck caravan drive from Detroit, were remembered today only as mere incidents of an "experience" adventure. For the youths were well on their way to Phoenix, Arizona and singing the praises of California's Salvation Army and California's Santa Ana to the desert skies.

They had reasons. First because several Salvation Army men along the route between San Francisco and here invited them in and gave them temporary "board and room," jobs, and second, because a Santa Ana public official who chooses to remain unidentified, not only invited them to his home for dinner and breakfast but paid for their overnight lodging bill and sent them on their way with $5 cash they didn't have before. They protested the Santa Ana hospitality as being far more than they deserved. They didn't want to accept the money. "It's just a loan, boys," the official told them. "Send it back when you can."

Well-bred and polite, the youths told an interesting story between apologies for eating so much at dinner. "We're rather hungry; haven't eaten since breakfast this morning," they said.

The youths, one of whom will go to college next fall, said they live in Royal Oak, Mich., suburb of Detroit.

"We heard they wanted drivers to bring some pick-up trucks through to San Francisco and would pay board and room en route, and $20 each at the end of the trip," Smith declared. "Let me tell you something—don't ever buy a caravan truck if you don't want to get stung. They made us drive 'em 60 miles an hour most of the way and a new car just can't stand up under it."

"Each one of the eight of us had to tow an extra truck behind and a clutch burned out on my truck, going over the Rockies, but the boss just told me to 'pound it through' as there was no time to lose," Smith continued. He said the trucks were manufactured by a world-wide concern and admitted he "could never forget" the name and address of the man who did not give him or his fellow drivers their $20 at the end of the journey.

"But we were pretty lucky at that," he said. "We got it straight that a caravan outfit from South Bend has the habit of hiring drivers through to the coast and then firing them along about the halfway point and taking on whatever California-bound transients they can find who want to get there for nothing."

Smith and McKenzie said their experiences with the Salvation Army, with Los Angeles jail where they were "housed" among the drunks for "one day only" after telling "the lady judge" they were going home as fast as possible, and with the generous Santa Ana official, were the high-lights of the trip, to date. They specifically mentioned Salvation Army

558 Cash Prizes

1st Prize	$1,000

3rd Prize	$250
5 prizes of $50
50 prizes of $10

Each of these prizes will be duplicated for the dealer named by the winner as the one from whom she buys thread, as stated in the rules.

Why millions of women prefer J. & P. COATS Thread (Read this carefully)

J. & P. Coats Best Six Cord Thread has been a favorite with American women for generations. And small wonder! Those six tightly twisted cords of long-fibered cotton give the thread strength and evenness. That means less snarling—less breaking—less rethreading—than you have with inferior thread. That's true of both hand and machine sewing.

It means, too, that things sewed with J. & P. Coats Thread stay sewed—scams hold, buttons stay on, hems stay in. There's less mending to do.

It's false economy to use "bargain" thread when you sew. You save both time and trouble when you use J. & P. Coats Best Six Cord Thread.

Perhaps you have other reasons why you'd rather use J. & P. Coats than best inferior thread. A first prize of $1,000 is awaiting the best statement of the numerous reasons why J. & P. Coats Best Six Cord Thread is preferred. So get busy—begin writing your answer now.

NOTES FROM THE CAMP OF THE BOSTON BEES

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., March 19.—(UP)—Bob Quinn, new president of the Boston Bees, met Wally Berger for the first time when the renowned outfielder reported at the Philli hotel here. Quinn anticipated quite a battle with the national league leader in the batted in and home runs. . . . But after chatting for 15 minutes, Quinn and Berger emerged from a room with their arms around one another, and now old Bob can't say too many nice things about the star of his club. . . . It is believed Berger got $12,500 making him the highest paid outfielder in the older loop, with the possible exception of Mel Ott of the Giants. . . . Hal Lee, who led the 1935 Braves in hitting with .302, also had his contract adjusted here. . . . The Louisville team would be a more efficient athlete if he could correct strikes and system in the Bees' drills under Bill McKeechie than there are in the practice sessions of any other club. . . . Flint Rhem has slipped out of the big show. . . . The former Cardinal luminary went to Nashville as part payment for Southpaw Sharkey Eiland.

SAILOR MARTIN IS BELL'S NEXT RIVAL

Both "Jungle Jim" Woodroof, the rugged Anaheim light-heavyweight puncher and "Porky" Bell, sensational former football star of the Santa Ana high school eleven, will be up against real tests tomorrow night when they box on the "Jimmie Heffron Night" program at the Orange County Athletic club.

Woodroof, who returns to ring activity after a brief layoff, has been training for the past three weeks and looks to be in top shape for his encounter with Bill Monty while Bell, fresh from his second one-round kayo triumph, steps out against a fairly experienced fisticuff in Sailor "Martin in the special event of the night."

Fans are of the opinion the heavyweight battle between Sailor "Buck" Kimball and Henry Lowe, 200-pound Negro from Los Angeles, will be another sensational slugging brawl like the two recent fights between Lowe and Lupe LeMon.

Promoter Sampson announced today that regardless of the outcome, Lowe would be rematched for a five-round fight the following week against LeMon. Each had holds a win over the other and fans want to see them in the "rubber" match.

Regular patrons are urged to pick up their tickets not later than 2 p. m. tomorrow in order to avoid disappointment, inasmuch as ring-side and reserve seat tickets are selling at a brisk rate and Legion officials predict a complete sellout.

MERCURIO LEVELS ON SOUTHERN COUNTIES JUMP RECORD

For the first time in many years, Santa Ana's track team won't cut a figure in the Southern Counties Invitational meet at Huntington Beach Saturday.

Paradoxically enough, the record that seems most likely to be fractured is in the grasp of a Santa Ana man—tall, handsome Blas Mercurio, second-best high-jumper of all time here.

Coach "Pinky" Green is going to turn his captain loose at the Southern Counties classic, believing Mercurio capable of approaching the Saint record of 6 feet, 4 inches.

In the open high jump, Mercurio set a Class B record of 6:2 1-8 at the Chaffey Invitational. Five of eight was "tops" for Mercurio until that day. And it is a fact that 6:2 1-8 is still Blas' best effort, although he has scored 5 feet or better a score of times.

"I started high-jumping at Frances Willard junior high school," says Mercurio. "The best I ever did there was 5:3. I was as much surprised as anybody when I got hot up at Chaffey that day. But it gave me confidence."

The kid is ideally built for jumping, being springy-legged, fast, tall and lithe. He is 5:11 1-2 and weighs about 150 pounds. He is 17 years old and the son of Mr. and Mrs. Vincent Mercurio of 1010 Custer street.

Mercurio is set on continuing his career at college. Which one, he says, he hasn't decided. He may go to Santa Ana jaysvee one year and then transfer.

Blas is naturally athletic. Coach Bill Foote lured him out of football toward the middle of the 1935 season. Mercurio's first game was against Alhambra. The first time he carried the ball in competition he ran 53 yards, should have gone all the way. His inexperience cost him a place in Ripley. He had an interferer with him and only the safety man to worry about. But Mercurio sprinted past his blocker and Alhambra's safety forced him out of bounds.

Leroy Haynes, much in the public eye after belting out Primo Carnera in three heats, used to toil and spin for Henry Foust when the Herr Doctor was running the Orange County Athletic club. And Haynes was not always a main-eventer here, either.

Jimmie Heffron, Anaheim's popular sports editor, will be taken into Los Angeles over the week-end for a general physical examination by specialists at the Good Samaritan hospital.

The best indoor sport may be bridge and again it may be poker. The wisest of men disagree. But now I know the worst indoor sport, it's sitting in a hospital room 32 hours—waiting for something to happen.

Mercurio has jumped seriously only twice this year. Both times he cleared 6:2. When it is understood that from 1914 to 1931, the Santa Ana high school record remained untouched at 6 feet, Mercurio's feat is better appreciated. The late Paul Anderson held that old standard.

Mercurio leaped to fame figuratively and literally two years ago. Virtually unknown, so lightly considered he was not even entered 4 1-8 inches that Paul Jacques made in 1931 when Jacques beat Cornelius Johnson in the State meet.

'DEPTH' GIVES S. A. EDGE IN 'JACKET MEET'

By MARVIN SPICER

Santa Ana junior college will be gunning for its first athletic victory over Fullerton this school year when Coach Art Nunn brings his troupe of Yellowjacket trackmen to Poly field tomorrow to oppose the Dons in an Eastern conference dual meet.

When festivities get underway at 4 p. m., nothing will be at stake except the traditional rivalry between the two Orange county schools. Coach Bill Cook's forces were eliminated from the league's dual meet titular race by Riverside Monday. Concensus has it that nothing short of a miracle can keep the Bengals from sailing through their dual season unopposed.

Fullerton's single test in conference competition came last Monday when they walked through a weaker-than-ever Pomona team 104-27.

Making itself a mark for dissenting opinion because of optimism in the dopesheet, The Register predicts that Cook's cohorts should win by the comfortable margin of 75-55. As the Dons will be so far in the lead there will probably be no reason for the relay to be run off, thus Fullerton will annex this event by forfeit.

Regardless of the fact that Vernon Koepsel will not run, Santa Ana has more power and depth than Coach Art Nunn's gang and should carry too many guns for the up-country institution. However, a big question mark hovers over some of the Don entries. Will Frank Ochoa, able to run the mile in addition to the 800 and if so will his legs be in good enough shape to enable him to beat Paul Moore, Fullerton's leading distance man?

Doubt also centers around Bob Spray, lanky Tustin lad, who hasn't been able to come anywhere near his high school performances because of an attack of flu.

Tom Berkeley, the dusky athlete who was such a thorn in the side of Don basketball players, is the Hornets' premier point guard. The hurdles and high jump are his favorite events. Against Pomona he placed first in all three. He has marks of six feet in the high jump and will be favored there while his time in the shuttle races points toward a spectacular duel with Santa Ana's timber-topping trio—Frank Boyd, Bob Reif, and Bill Greshner.

Fullerton and Anaheim scribes have been singing the praises of Erwin Miller in the quarter-mile. Miller was the second best prep 440 man in the state last year. Moore, Coach Nunn's half-miler, demonstrated Monday that he had plenty on the ball when he defeated Pomona's Don Peterson who was the conference's 880 champ last spring.

Fullerton's grammar school track team yesterday defeated Tustin's elementary school cinder squad, 82 1-2 to 81 1-2, in a dual meet at Tustin.

The scores were close in all four divisions—senior, intermediate, junior and middle. The outstanding mark of the day was Junior Nelson's put of 34 ft. 9 in. which snapped the county 8-pound shot record by two feet.

Invades of Huntington Beach leaped 6 ft. 2 in. in the high jump while Zurig of Huntington Beach set a 5 to 6 victory over the Tokyo High Casey, former Chicago Cub hurler, who allowed only one hit in six innings and Fleming allowed only one in finishing the game.

FRESNO—There were new absences in the San Francisco Seals spring training camp today. Ivan Robertson, outfielder from Napa, and R. Jacobson, Kansas City southpaw, were handed their releases by Manager "Lefty" O'Doul. Harley Boss, the Seals' new first baseman, continued to win praise of camp onlookers.

SAN BERNARDINO—The Los Angeles Angel regulars handed the yankees a 4 to 1 defeat yesterday as Hugh Casey, former Chicago Cub hurler, held the rookies to four hits.

WINTER HAVEN, Fla.—Having scored their first victory after three straight defeats against major league opposition, the Philadelphia Phillies hoped to show their class today against the Philadelphia Eagles. The Phils beat Brooklyn, 7-2, yesterday.

'TROUBLEMAKER'

"Dizzy" Dean, below, great Cardinal pitcher, was branded as a malcontent and a troublemaker today by Branch Rickey, vice president of the club.

'DIZZY' SHAKES AND ENDS FEUD WITH CATCHER

BRADENTON, Fla., March 19.—(UP)—Peace was restored to the ranks of the St. Louis Cardinals today when Jerome ("Dizzy") Dean, star pitcher, signed an agreement to "pitch to anybody on the club," thus ending the verbal duel between Dean and Catcher Virgil Davis which has raged for weeks.

Branch Rickey, Cardinal vice president, brought Dean and Davis together today and both players embraced each other, shook hands and agreed there was nothing to their battle.

Rickey's success in bringing the two together indicated Dean is certain to sign soon. He and "Dizzy" began a conference somewhere in Bradenton today, a meeting certain to end with Dean's signature on a St. Louis contract.

The three-conferred secretly early today "somewhere between Bradenton and Sarasota."

Davis, who denied he ever threatened "to punch Dizzy's nose when he steps into the clubhouse," returned to Bradenton and told the United Press about the meeting.

He said Rickey asked Dean about his refusal to pitch to Davis because poor judgment on the latter's part was supposed to have cost "Dizzy" several victories last year.

"Give me a ball and give Davis a glove," Dizz said, "and I'll show you whether I'll pitch to him."

He then signed a paper, the gist of which was "I'll pitch to anybody so long as it will bring St. Louis a pennant."

"I never threatened to punch Dizz," Davis said. "I have too much sense to make such an ass of myself."

"Hell, the whole thing was nothing to get mad about. I couldn't get sore at Dizz because I think he's the greatest pitcher in the world."

When Dizzy's wife, who has taken an active interest in his affairs, learned of the meeting she was angry because Dizz had promised her he would play golf today.

The meeting was interpreted as a peace move on the part of Dean who has been holding out for a reported $40,000.

Meanwhile, brother Paul, the other member of the team of "Me 'n Paul," still is in Texas working out. Once "Diz" signs, Paul is certain to follow.

GARDEN GROVE GETS EVEN WITH INDIANS

Capturing the Class E relay, deciding event of the meet, Garden Grove yesterday downed Coach Arnold Lund's Frances E. Willard junior high track team, 85-79.

The meet, which embraced four divisions, was a return affair, Willard having previously won over Garden Grove here. The Class E and Class F teams bowed to the Garden Grove men, 51 1/2 to 31 1/5.

DESCRIBE 'DIZ' AS CARD CLUB TROUBLEMAKER

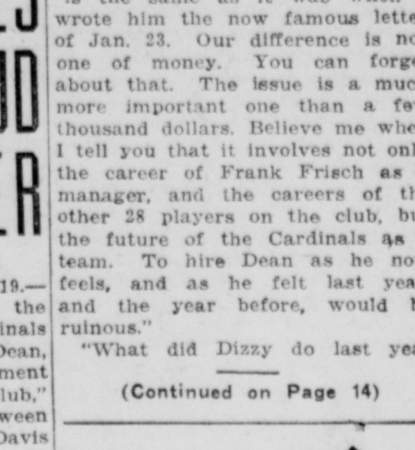

BY HENRY McLEMORE
(United Press Staff Correspondent)
BRADENTON, Fla., March 19.—(UP)—"Dizzy" Dean may be the greatest pitcher in the world, and the loss of the Arkansas cotton picker might cost the team the 1936 championship, but the St. Louis Cardinals are not going to risk their future as a team simply to satisfy a man they consider the greatest malcontent in baseball today.

That, in so many words, is what Branch Rickey, general manager of the St. Louis club, told me last night 25 minutes after he had talked to the dissatisfied pitcher by telephone.

"Our relationship," Rickey said, "is the same as it was when I wrote him the now famous letter of Jan. 23. Our difference is not one of money. You can forget about that. The issue is a much more important one than a few thousand dollars. Believe me when I tell you that it involves not only the career of Frank Frisch as a manager, and the careers of the other 25 players on the club, but the future of the Cardinals as a team. To hire Dean as he now feels, and as he felt last year, and the year before, would be ruinous."

"What did Dizzy do last year?"

TEACHER HERE IN 1915-1917 IS NEW AUTHOR

A new volume of religious devotion, "The Upward Look," will be of special interest to Santa Ana people because on its cover appears the name of Harold G. Black, who during 1915-1917 was a teacher of English at the Santa Ana High school and Junior college.

The book contains a meditation, a Bible verse, and a prayer for each day of the year, in addition to other pages for special occasions. The material in it has been contributed by 250 distinguished writers from all parts of the world—bishops, preachers, educators, and well-known laymen. Every state in the Union is represented, as well as every province in Canada. Contributions are found from Alaska and Australia, Turkey and China, England and Italy, India and South America, South Africa and the Philippines. California is well represented by over a score of contributors. There is in the volume a wealth of devotional material that is perhaps unmatched by any other similar book.

After leaving Santa Ana, Mr. Black taught for three years in the Sacramento High school, and since 1920 has been a teacher of English at Hollywood High school. He is a near relative of Albert C. Black, of this city, and will be remembered by a large number of Santa Anans.

SAN CLEMENTE, March 19.—Plans for the old-fashioned dancing party which will occur the evening of April 17 were outlined at the Townsend club meeting last night. The dance will be held in the grammar school auditorium, a large room with an excellent floor. Volunteer musicians will furnish dance music. A caller for old-time square dances will be secured. Games for those who do not wish to dance will be provided and old style costumes will be in order.

A membership drive is under way with Miss Kathryn Allison and Mrs. Fred Shork as leaders. Joe Kramer reported that Senator Frank Arbutic, a personal friend of Kramer, has accepted an invitation to speak in San Clemente as soon as he returns from Washington where he is to remain during the Townsend investigation by Congress. Provision will be made for surrounding communities to hear this talk.

BIBLE CLASSES FOR TEACHERS OPEN SATURDAY

Training for teachers of neighborhood classes in Bible study for children will be started Saturday morning at 10 o'clock in the Spurgeon Memorial Methodist Church. It was announced today by Herbert P. Rankin, chairman of the committee in charge.

Rankin stated that 11 teachers from various churches have signified their intention to undertake the work, and that a number of groups will be started as soon as plans can be perfected. Eight homes have been offered for the meeting places, and details are being worked out to get under way immediately after the Easter vacation.

The work on Saturday morning will be conducted by Miss Alma Bailey, a teacher of some 12 years of experience in training leadership. Teachers are invited to take the training with her whether they are volunteers for the weekday classes or not, said Rankin.

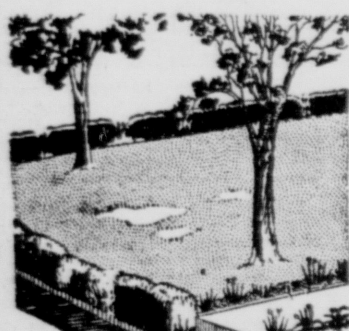

OZARKS ONCE UNDER SEA

SPRINGFIELD, Mo. (UP)—The Ozark plateau may have been the first part of North America to rise from the water that once covered the continent, according to some geologists who have visited the area. Imprints of shellfish in rock attest that water once covered the shaggy peaks.

JIMMY FIDLER in HOLLYWOOD

HOLLYWOOD, March 19.—Personal observations: Miriam Hopkins' eyes glint defiance even when she smiles. I have never blushed about Pert Kelton that she did not respond with a pen-look of thanks. Least actress looking actress off screen is Patsy Kelly. If it be true that lips express emotions, Rochelle Hudson must be the epitome of romance, because her mouth is oh-so-kissable. Verree Teasdale's first name is almost invariably mispronounced. It should rhyme with Marie.

Joel McCrea's smile looks like a message from his heart. The nearest man I know is Richard Arlen; at work or play he is spotless. Johnny Weissmuller's "Tarzan yell" on the screen belies him; I have yet to hear him raise his voice above a quiet tone. Nat Pendleton keeps himself in perfect physical condition. His stomach muscles are so hard he will let you pound him with your fist. One light tap on the tummy, and my liver and gizzard start to rumba.

Not until the stars mingle with great crowds are their true colors revealed. In night clubs, at the opera, even at previews, they are in their own element and they "put it on" for benefit of visiting yokels. But at Santa Anita races or football games, where they are surrounded and outnumbered by "the rabble," actors react differently. The truly modest try to ignore staring eyes and whispered identifications. Veteran actors, like Hugh Herbert and Guy Kibbee, go their way apparently unaware of the attention they command. Ronald Colman, on rare occasions when he attends public affairs, wears a hat with brim pulled low over his face. Joan Crawford's eyes enlarge and shine; she is afraid of crowds. Franchot Tone wears a feeble smile and avoids looking into nearly faces. Al Jolson is not one bit shy; he will shout loudly to friends. He revels in public attention. The one time I saw Greta Garbo in public was the night she mingled with 20,000 music lovers at a Hollywood Bowl concert. Recognized on the way out, she uttered a faint scream, threw dignity to the winds, gathered her skirts to her knees and ran to her parked automobile. A hundred or more pursuers failed to overtake the fleet Greta.

On the outskirts of Hollywood is a burial ground that is visited by dozens of stars every day. It is the Los Angeles Pet Cemetery. Since 1922, when it first won at-

PHONE GIRL IS GOING HAYWIRE IN FLOOD AREA

BY BEATRICE KETLEY

PITTSBURGH, Pa., March 19.—(UP)—This town's gone crazy—haywire—cuckoo! A telephone operator hears a lot of nutty things every day, but yesterday beat them all.

The higher the water got, the crazier people got. And we had to keep right on being nice, like this:

"(Very sweetly) — "Number, please?"
"Nuts!"
I left home in Lawrenceville Tuesday morning and I haven't been able to get back since. I got a street car which took me only 15 blocks. Then I got a taxi into the city and barely got to work on time.
Tuesday was just ordinary. All the telephones worked and we had no trouble. But I stayed at a hotel uptown! I shiver every time I think of these poor people wading out of some places.
Mister, I can't put into words the way calls were rolling in when I went back to work. Yeah, it made me sore. It would you, too. The higher the water got, the crazier people got. Everybody wanted to talk to all their relatives.
It got really bad in the evening.

Most of the lines went down. We thought maybe we'd go down with them.
I dashed out to eat and when I got back it was worse—it was possible. Everybody said he had an emergency call. Most of them wanted to tell Aunt Emma they were O. K.
What would I do if it lasted much longer? Say, I'd go out and drown myself!

HAMILTON WINS TOASTMASTER'S TALK CONTEST

Dwight Hamilton won first place in the speaking contest held by Smedley Chapter of Toastmasters' International at the meeting last evening at James' cafe with his discussion of the importance of practical education in high schools.

In his talk Hamilton stated that high school students should have a fundamental knowledge of insurance, ownership of different types of property and general business principles and practices.

H. O. Ensign won second place in the speaking contest with his interesting talk on "Personality" which he defined as "the sum total of what a person is."

Ensign told of the importance of strict adherence to a definite pattern for personal behavior.

"A Cub Engineer of the '30s" was the subject of the talk given by W. N. Cummings of his early experiences as an engineer in an Illinois coal mine.

J. Lee Hewitt, speaking on "The Man Behind the Veneer," discussed the different types of men and stated that the circumstances in which a man finds himself govern the expression of his personality.

Other talks

"The War of the Olympics" was the subject of the talk given by Robert Korff in which he contrasted the true spirit of the Olympic games with the war atmosphere prevalent in Europe.

Carson A. Fox gave an interesting discussion of the supplying of heating gas to Southern California cities.

"The European Situation" was the subject of the talk given by James N. Anderson in which he reviewed the situation in Europe which has culminated in the present London conference.

L. S. Mortenson and J. Lee Woods were welcomed into the club by J. Lee Hewitt, one of the senior members of the Toastmasters' International organization.

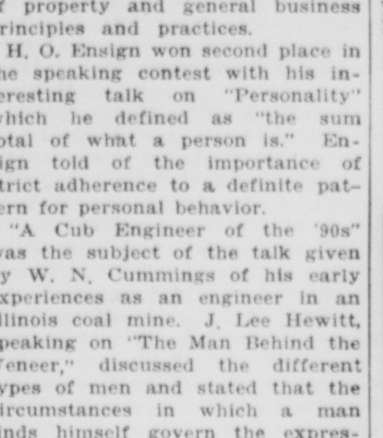

T. M. McLeod was a visitor to the club.

R. Carson Smith presided as toastmaster of the evening with Eugene Kruger as general critic and Walter Ferris as dictionary critic.

The dictionary critic's duty is to check on mispronounced words in speeches made before the club, a new step in line with the organization's ideal of better speeches.

JAYSEE HONOR SOCIETY WILL HOLD MEETING

Final plans were made today for the attendance of approximately 20 Santa Ana Junior college students at the sixth annual state convention of the Alpha Gamma Sigma scholarship society, to be held March 23 at Fullerton Junior college.

The plans were culminated at a meeting of the Santa Ana members held yesterday noon on the Junior college campus. The organization, of which the local college chapter is the oldest in California, is the state honor society, with membership based on election by the faculty of students who secure 30 or more grade points with no grade below C in a given semester.

The theme of the approaching convention will be "The Place of the College Youth in This Changing World." Six discussion groups will be held. These will include the following topics: "The Place of the Scholar," led by William H. Matlock; "The Relation of Scholarship to Government," led by Otis P. LeRoss; "Education for the New Leisure," led by Mrs. Esther Culp Litchfield; "Longer Periods of School Attendance," led by Richard Warner Borst; "Changing Standards in Education: Moral and Character Education," led by Mrs. Myrtle V. Stuelke; and "Rising Standards in Professions and Occupations," led by Dr. Samuel H. Cortez.

Alan Mackay, president of the Santa Ana chapter, stated that Fullerton will also play host at a luncheon for the delegates to be held at the Hughes cafe in Fullerton.

Questions and Answers

C. L.: What is the best way to mail manuscripts?

Editors prefer to receive manuscripts that have been mailed flat. When you mail flat, it will be necessary for you to buy two sizes of tough paper envelopes, approximately 5x12 and 3x12 1/2 inches. You will also need to use pasteboard to keep the manuscript from being bent or folded. I like the pasteboards around which shirts are folded when they return from the laundry. Ordinary light-weight corrugated paper boards are just as good.

Cut the pasteboard to fit the inside envelope, which will be the one you will address to yourself. In that way the editor has the pasteboard where he needs it when—or if—he decides to return the manuscript to you. It might get mislaid—and very often does—when you insert it in the outer envelope with the manuscript. As an added precaution against damage, I always mark my envelopes "First Class Mail—Do Not Bend." (A postman once told me that it didn't make any difference if you had stamps pasted all over the envelope, unless you said "Do not bend," the men who handle the mail are privileged to use their own judgment.)

A one-fold manuscript should be inserted in a 7x10 or a 7x10 1/2 envelope. It will not be necessary to insert pasteboard in envelopes of this size, but it is a good idea to mark them "First Class Mail—Do Not Bend."

Regarding Copyrights

E. W. Can I copyright my short stories before I submit them to an editor?

Not unless you want to go to the expense of having them printed, which is seldom advisable. You need not worry about copyrights, however, unless you are mailing something to a moving picture studio. The average short story is perfectly safe in an editorial office. Even if it has an outstanding idea, but is poorly written, it is likely to come bouncing back as "pure" as when it went out.

I never feel the least bit of alarm over another writer stealing my plots. As a rule the stories you "think up" would never occur to another writer, and if they did, he wouldn't develop them the same way you do. If you have any doubt about this, give half a dozen writing friends the same set of characters and opening situation and see how differently they handle them. Fortunately, no two of us see things exactly alike. What may seem to be a whole of a plot to you, may be less than the dust to me, and visa versa.

So don't lose my sleep over what the other fellow is going to do with the manuscripts you send him. If they are worth buying and he isn't overstocked on material of that particular kind, he will buy them. If the stories aren't worth buying, all the king's horses and all the king's men won't keep you from getting them back again.

Copyrights are valuable things, but you do not need them for your short stories.

MAYOR NAMED TO AID BEACH HARBOR FETE

Mayor Fred C. Rowland of Santa Ana has accepted appointment as one of the honorary vice presidents for the celebration to be held May 23-24 to mark the formal opening of Southern California's latest harbor at Newport Bay.

In all, 100 prominent citizens of the Southland and Northern California have been asked to serve as honorary vice presidents for this occasion and already a large number have agreed to act and to assist in every way possible.

The main feature for this occasion will be a parade of ships flying the flags of all maritime cities on the Pacific Coast. This fleet will enter the harbor in divisions headed by ships of the Navy and Coast Guard.

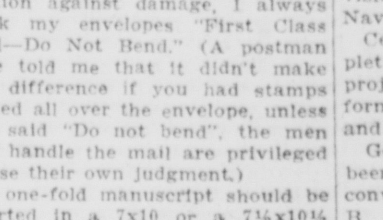

Ceremonies will mark the completion of a $2,000,000 Federal project and the harbor will be formally dedicated to yachting and recreational activities.

Governor Frank F. Merriam has been asked to officiate and to convey invitations to Governor R. B. Mouser of Arizona, Governor Richard Kirman of Nevada and General Gabriel Lavin, governor of Lower California, to be present as guests of the community and take part in the affair.

TEXAS LADY FORCED TO DIET; ALL FOODS DISAGREED WITH HER

Kidneys Disordered, Too, Nervous, Got But Little Sleep, Dizziness Was Awful; Gly-Cas Again Proves Merit After All Else Failed.

Hundreds of Santa Ana people and residents of this vicinity are now taking GLY-CAS and saying they have never before found anything to compare with this new remedy being explained everyday at the K-B Drug Co.

MRS. A. L. HARDGRAVES

No. 3, 108 West Fourth Street, this city by the GLY-CAS Man. And they tell you that after GLY-CAS' pure and powerful ingredients, cleansed their bowels, flushed their kidneys and purified their blood stream, they were freed of all kinds of aches and pains—lost with nature no longer fighting inner poisons have found a new joy in living unknown to them for years.

Read what Mrs. A. L. Hardgraves, 1904-B, 14th St., Lubbock, Texas, highly respected lady of that vicinity said recently in talking with the GLY-CAS Man about the remarkable action of this new remedy:

"For eight years regardless of my diet, I suffered after each meal," said Mrs. Hardgraves. "Gas would form and would become until my stomach would become terribly sore. I got little if any enjoyment from my meals and eggs, milk and the like were out of the question for me to eat. Sleep was impossible at night, up at all hours with my kidneys which were also a constant cause for distress. I was terribly nervous this continual suffering has seemingly wrecked my entire system, even dizzy spells were so frequent they worried me. But in spite of all I tried I could get no better and even when I began hearing so much praise for GLY-CAS I thought it like all the rest—but a short trial soon convinced me how remarkably different it was."

"It was a pleasant surprise to see how quickly my health was restored by this new GLY-CAS," continued Mrs. Hardgraves. "For the first time in years I can sit down and eat a hearty meal without the least suffering afterward. Gas, bloating and indigestion are all in the past and even those dizzy spells and the nervousness has left me. I can sleep fine the entire night through. Kidneys no longer bother me and I am again feeling fine. Sufferers there is no equal for this new remedy."

The GLY-CAS Man is daily meeting the crowds of local people at the K. B. Drug Co., No. 3, 108 W. 4th Street, this city, where he is introducing and explaining the action of this amazing GLY-CAS, $1.00-box, 6 boxes $5.00 Plus 3 cents per dollar tax by mail. Cash must accompany order.

75 KITES ENTERED IN SCHOOL CONTEST

WESTMINSTER, March 19.—The Kite contest sponsored by the Westminster school district and held at the Hoover school grounds brought out approximately 75 kites. The ribbons given in the contest to winners were presented by the Robertson Drug store of Midway City. There were four divisions.

Wide Latitude Given Guests In Gift Choice

Gifts for her trousseau, gifts for her linen shelves and gifts for her china cabinet—all these were showered on Miss Miriam Samuelson last night when three of her friends, Mrs. Clyde Higgins (Beryl Laddow), Miss Helen Demetriou and Miss Dorothy Dunbar, presided at a bridal shower for the popular young fiancée of Carleton Smith.

Party guests were received in the home of Mrs. Higgins, 1214 East Chapman avenue, Orange, where sweet peas and ranunculus established the springtime motif of the party. Again the theme appeared in tally cards distributed for the functions which added to the week's interest socially. Yesterday, Mrs. R. S. Chandler and Mrs. Mark R. Lacy were luncheon hostesses, continuing a party series which Mr. and Mrs. Chandler and Mrs. W. A. Flood introduced the previous evening.

Exquisitely appointed with touches of green in the feathery ferns surrounding immaculate white flowers, the one long table reserved for the Santa Ana group, deferred to the popular Irish holiday in such minor appointments as sweet meats and place cards.

These cards did double service for recording bridge scores, when guests adjourned to the card room for play. Mrs. Flood assisted in such matters as checking scores and other details. Players pivoted at each of the half dozen tables in play, and a charming gift went to the holder of high score at each of the six.

Mrs. Lacy and Mrs. Chandler received Mesdames George S. Briggs, Lloyd Chenoweth, H. T. Dunning, Charles V. Davis, W. A. Flood, Roy Hall, R. C. Hollis, Irwin F. Landis, Benjamin J. MacMullen, Howard Timmons, Emory D. White, H. B. Van Dien, John Walls of Anaheim, M. D. Borgmeyer and her guests, Mrs. George Lewey and Mrs. Henry Carson of New York City. Mesdames Sara Johnston Haddon, Robert G. Tuthill, Richard Emison, Howard Rapp, A. G. Flagg and Wade Warner.

Dinner Event
Much the same general decorative effect in use yesterday, was maintained at the dinner party on the preceding evening, when Mr. and Mrs. Chandler and Mrs. Flood received Miss Kay Chandler assisted throughout the evening. Contract scores held by Mr. and Mrs. Chenoweth, Mrs. B. Bertrand West and Mrs. B. Tucker.

Mrs. Chandler and Mrs. Lacy have invitations out for a luncheon later this week, when guests will be received in the Chandler home, 302 South Birch street.

Prominent Educator Brings Santa Ana Visit To Close

Enjoying a semester leave from her teaching duties in New York City, where she is recognized as a prominent educator, Miss Alice Wright has occasioned a number of hospitalities during her few weeks' stay in Santa Ana. It is with very real regret that her many new friends here will say farewell to her Saturday when she brings her visit to a conclusion. Going to San Francisco, Portland, Ore., and on to Montreal, Can., she will begin extensive travels which will take her to England for a summer tour.

Some of these fascinating travel plans were revealed by the interesting Southland visitor yesterday afternoon when she was honor guest at a tea given by a long-time friend, Mrs. W. H. Harrison. The latter's home at 1406 Bush street was brightened with many flowers, expressing California hospitality for a charming Eastern visitor.

Many Guests
From 4 to 6 o'clock in the afternoon, 60 friends called. The guest list was composed of Chapter D. L. P. E. O. members, First Baptist church associates, and former Montana friends of the hostess and her honoree. Both Miss Wright and Mrs. Harrison were graduated from the University of Montana, where Mrs. Marshall Harnois of this city was a classmate of Miss Wright.

For five years Mrs. Harrison and Miss Wright were together as members of the faculty of Missoula county, Mont., high school. The two wrote their theses under different names. Mrs. Harrison's was "The De Molay quartet," composed of Darrell Gaebe, Stanley Sebastian, Maurice Birt, Ralph Pagenkopp, sang.

Preparatory to election of officers in April, was selection of a nominating committee composed of Mesdames Jacob Rohlander, Margaret Ahern and Herbert Johnson. Mrs. E. M. Waycott conducted a short business meeting during which a revision of by-laws occurred. Mesdames Grace J. Merget and E. J. Brooks were voted in as new members. Announcement was made that the club's social section will meet Tuesday at 1:30 p. m. in Veterans hall.

Study Section
The meeting was preceded by a study section, with Mrs. Raymond McMahon as leader. Mrs. E. G. Maier talked on Japan, displaying pictures, kimono and other articles from the Orient.

Club Hostesses Pay Honor to Past Presidents
Harmony Bridge club members made a special occasion of their luncheon meeting Tuesday in Masonic temple, according to special honors to past presidents of the organization.

Hostesses, Mrs. C. E. Morse and the club president, Mrs. Glenn Lacy, had arranged various features in compliment to the past presidents. Mesdames Harry Roberts, George Shippe, Elton Roehm, Charles H. Ryan, Walter Wright and Sam Jernigan. Mrs. Mary Shawro of Hollywood, a past president who was unable to attend, had sent a letter to be read by the members.

Each past president received a pair of ivory clips from Mrs. Lacy, and a corsage bouquet as a gift of the two hostesses. Decorations for luncheon were in green and white. During the noon hour, past presidents gave short talks on incidents occurring during their terms of office.

Bridge was played, with prizes going to Mrs. Augusta Whisenand and Mrs. Paul Cozad, who scored first and second high in auction bridge; Mrs. Al Adrain and Mrs. George Shippe, first and second high in contract. Special awards went to Mrs. Roehm and Mrs. Shippe.

Present were Mesdames George Shippe, Walter Wright, Elton Roehm, Al Adrain, Roland Kloss, C. L. Neuschwanger, Don Edwards, John Garthe, Osborne Holmes, Paul Cozad, William Holmes, Paul Cozad, Holmes, C. H. Ryan, C. A. Rousseau, Harry Roberts, Elizabeth Gowdy, Augusta Whisenand, A. W. Getchell, Forest White, Ray Snyder and the two hostesses.

Plans were made for a public card party to be held April 21 at 1 p. m. in the temple, with Mrs. Shippe as general chairman; Mrs. Walter Wright in charge of refreshments; Mrs. Max Gowdy, prizes and cards.

The next regular meeting will be held April 7, at which time Mrs. Max Gowdy and Mrs. Elizabeth Gowdy will be hostesses.

Recognized Authority On Russia to Speak Before Eboli

Those who have followed with such deep interest, the books produced by Maurice Hindus on Russia, beginning with "The Russian Peasant and the Revolution" in 1920, and continuing at intervals until the present, will be deeply stirred by the announcement that Eboli society is to present this thinker-writer-lecturer on next Monday's afternoon program in the clubhouse auditorium.

Because of the standing of the lecturer in the literary world and his vital contributions to thinking people so deeply interested in present-day Russia, his address is believed to be of special value to men, so husbands of Eboli members have been reminded of their standing invitation to attend all general club programs. It is believed that a record-breaking crowd will be present to hear what promises to be one of the outstanding programs of the year.

It has been freely claimed that Hindus is not interested in proving anything—that his province is the giving of unbiased accounts of what he has actually seen and experienced in the post-revolution Russia. This faculty for observance is doubly valuable because with it is a comprehensive knowledge of Russian in the days of the Czars.

HUMAN TYPES DISCUSSED BY CLUB SPEAKER

ORANGE, March 19.—Carl Harvey of Brea, deputy district governor of the fourth district of Lions clubs, spoke to Orange Lions Wednesday, telling of the psychological classes into which mankind is divided and the combinations of the types which go toward making the normal or average man. Dr. J. E. Riley was program chairman and Alvin-Drum presided.

Harvey, who is principal of the Brea-Olinda union high school, described the "lone wolf" type of man, who, he declared, is a dynamic leader, is obstinate, pushes forward in the face of every difficulty and who often is very lonely. The peacock type, he stated, is the man who lives, thinks and acts only for himself, is shallow and superficial and who never follows, who is an egoist and who has no spirit of co-operation.

The timid type, the speaker said, is the man who is willing to listen rather than to speak, is an ideal neighbor and knows much because he listens. Harvey declared this man is an introvert, or man who looks much within, has an ability to think far in advance of most types and has the courage of his convictions.

The extrovert, the opposite type, is the hail fellow-well-met type and he is useful under leadership but helpless without it, he said.

THE TWYMITES

"The four-leaf clover is our friend. On that I'm sure we can depend," said Dotty, "round and round."

"I'm wondering, though, just one thing. What luck can that large clover bring? Will it do something that will make us all glad it was found?"

The clover heard wee Sooty and replied, "You soon will understand that I bring real good luck. Just watch fair Dotty and you'll see."

"I'll let her do a little trick that you all will agree is sick. The reason I have picked her is 'cause she discovered me."

"To carry out my little plan, I need a tiny watering can." "I'll get you one," the cattail said. "Neath yonder tree there's one."

"I'll fill it up with water, too, if that's what you want me to do."

The clover said, "Okay," and 'twas no sooner said than done.

"Now, Tinies, there's a fern nearby. It is a tiny one, but I am going to show you how to make it grow," the clover cried.

"All of you please start looking 'round, and see how soon it can be found."

"Aw, I'm too tired to look. I'll sit and rest," wee Duncy sighed.

"Oh, this will be just like a game. If we can't find it, what a shame," said Copy. "Let's spread out a bit, so we won't miss one spot."

They searched 'bout an hour or so, and then wee Dotty shouted, "Oh, I've found a fern. It is the one we're seeking, like as not."

The clover shouted, "You are right. Right now that fern's a sad, sad sight. It's very small, but soon 'twill grow to many times its size."

"Now, Dotty, pour the water 'round the roots and saturate the ground."

The fern soon started growing right before the Tinies' eyes.

Pastor Charges Students Betting On Horse Races

LAGUNA BEACH COUNCIL URGED TO TAKE ACTION

LAGUNA BEACH, March 19.—The Rev. Raymond I. Brahm, pastor of Community Presbyterian church of Laguna Beach, appeared before the city council last night and presented charges that gambling in the form of race track bookmaking was prevalent in Laguna Beach. He declared that at a certain establishment, bets were accepted, in some instances from high school pupils, who were alleged to "pool" their limited pocket money in order to make up enough to place bets on horse races.

The Rev. Mr. Brahm stated that in 10 years he had appeared only three times, including the present, before the council on moral issues. He stated that the people of Laguna Beach were law abiding, home loving citizens and that he had received assurance of support in keeping Laguna Beach free from the elements which invariably follow clandestine gambling.

He outlined the method under which betting, under pari-mutuel systems, was legalized in the state but he averred that the local gamblers, whose names he said he had available, together with the names of their clients, were simply given in Santa Ana and other communities. The minister paid tribute to the co-operation he had always received from the council, citing as example the battle, over a year ago, to outlaw slot machines which were exacting toll from children.

At the close of the Rev. Mr. Brahm's talk, the matter was turned over to Police Commissioner L. F. Mallow, with instructions to take immediate action.

Mesa Auxiliary, Post Hold Party

COSTA MESA, March 19.—Members of the local American Legion post and the Legion auxiliary held a potluck dinner and social gathering in the organization headquarters on Broadway Tuesday evening. Following the dinner games were played and other social games were enjoyed. Emmett Allen, commander of the post, and Mrs. Anna Cramer, president of the auxiliary, presided. Mrs. Judy Wilcox was in charge of arrangements.

BREA HIGHWAY WORK TO BEGIN NEXT SUMMER

BREA, March 19.—Completion of East Imperial highway within the city limits is now assured, it was disclosed by Mayor L. A. Hogue at last night's meeting of the city councilmen. Hogue reported an interview with Leroy Lyons, supervisor from the third district; Nat Neff, county highway engineer, and W. E. Gripper, assistant district engineer of highways.

The street improvement program includes an expenditure of $5200, $3300 of which is Brea's allotment from the state gasoline revenue for the current year, $900 remaining from a similar source in 1935-36, and $1000 contributed from the county.

Work, according to Mayor Hogue, is to begin about July 1, beginning at a point on East Imperial just west of Flower street and continuing to the city limits beyond Randolph street. Grading and oiling and the preparing of all approaches from side streets and alleys will be in charge of the state highway departments, the city assuming responsibility for the replacing of all sidewalks, curbs, water lines and fire hydrants which may be disturbed.

When done the work will make a basis for the macadam finish which the city expects to finance through the gasoline revenue of 1937-1938. In this way no city funds will be needed to complete this street within the city, which will be a unit of the state highway, a short cut to Los Angeles from Imperial valley and points east and south.

Fred Boxall reported the walls of the supplementary reservoir completed and the floor to be finished by Friday night. William Shoff was hired as night watchman at the reservoir at a salary of $50 a month for such time as the city has any remaining materials on the site.

Following his talk, Harold

OUTLINE PLANS AT SESSION OF GRANGE GROUP

GARDEN GROVE, March 19.—Members of the newly formed Orange County Pomona grange held their first meeting Tuesday evening as guests of the Garden Grove grange in the woman's civic clubhouse, with about 150 members present representing six granges of the county.

A special honor guest of the evening, Mrs. H. Peebler, state deputy from Escondido, outlined programs for the year and assisted the Pomona grange master, W. H. Young. Mrs. Roy Corey, Pomona lecturer, gave a brief outline of work of committees and extended an invitation to all lecturers of the county granges to draw up a constitution and by-laws. E. E. Ulrich and Fred Allen, of Tustin; Charles George, of Garden Grove; Charles Decker and W. Sipherd, of Wintersburg. They will meet Tuesday evening with Fred Allen at Tustin. All masters of the county granges will meet at the home of Charles George in Garden Grove Monday evening to appoint committees for the year.

An invitation was accepted from Robert Wardlow for the Pomona grange to meet next month at the Wintersburg Grange hall. Reports were given from the following masters: Al Paper, of Anaheim; Robert Wardlow, of Wintersburg; E. E. Ulrich, of Tustin; J. M. Long, of Garden Grove and Mrs. Starns for the master of Costa Mesa.

Irish melodies were played by Henry Blasholder on the violin and his son, Ralph Blasholder, on the guitar. During the social hour the Home economics section served refreshments of hot cross buns, home made cakes and coffee.

Dinner Observes Club Anniversary

GARDEN GROVE, March 19.—Over 150 members of Garden Grove Townsend club attended the pot luck dinner given in Legion hall Monday evening in celebration of the first anniversary of the organization here. Mrs. A. J. Kelly, assisted by Mrs. Charles George and Mrs. W. H. Stennett, was in charge of the dinner. A large birthday cake presented by Mrs. W. H. Stennett was awarded to Alphonse Riley.

Mrs. Almedia Waltz, dramatics teacher of Long Beach, was the guest speaker, having as her subject, "Peace and Harmony Within the Townsend Clubs." She illustrated her subject with poems and quotations from Edgar A. Guest and Sam Walter Foss.

Old time violin selections were played by Mrs. Dorothy Stevens Mummery, accompanied at the piano by Miss Eileen Swenson. Vocal numbers, "When Irish Eyes Are Smiling" and "Smiling Thru" were sung by Paul Suggs, of Long Beach, accompanied by his wife.

It was decided to meet at 7:30 o'clock hereafter instead of 7 o'clock.

Grauel was appointed by Walter H. Foord, president of the club, to serve as head of a general committee, which is to be composed of reads of local civic and social units, to consider matters that may be of benefit to the community.

Willard Miner reported that the local club was winner of the attendance prize at the meeting of the county council of Lion's clubs at Santa Ana Monday evening.

LAGUNA COUNCIL REQUESTED TO APPOINT PLANNING COMMISSION; TAXICAB LAW WILL BE CHANGED

LAGUNA BEACH, March 19.—Appointment of a city planning commission was requested by George Portus, president of the Laguna Beach Chamber of Commerce, at last night's regular city council session. A delegation headed by Mrs. Henry Kenyon Beckwith was present in support of Portus' request for immediate action.

It was suggested that an advisory committee of six members, with three additional members in the persons of the city engineer, city attorney and one member of the city council, be named, with power to advise with council on such matters as zoning, building specifications in zoned areas, etc. Councilman Thomas Cummings asked for time in which to study the matter. Councilman L. F. Mallow suggested that opinion of counsel be obtained before proceeding further. Mayor Frank B. Champion and Councilman Howard Heisler expressed themselves in favor of a planning commission. Ultimately, the matter went over until the next regular meeting of the city council.

City Engineer Arthur Stead informed the council that according to advice received by him from State Engineer Cortelyou, the plan broached whereby the city of Laguna Beach would pay its share of upkeep of trees planted along the state highway in Laguna Beach city limits was not feasible.

Cortelyou, in reporting unfavorably on the proposal to pay Laguna's tree-uptake cost out of the quarter-cent gas-tax allocation, pointed out that such use of gas funds could be made only after first obligations had been fulfilled. In this case, the advice went on, first obligations of Laguna Beach consisted in repairing the "shoulders" of the state highway through Laguna canyon, within the city limits. Diversion of funds for other purposes was clearly at variance with both the letter and the spirit of the law, he said. It was pointed out, further, that but $385 was available as gas-tax money, whereas an estimate by State Arboriculturist Bowers estimated that at least $1500 would be necessary to take care of the plantings, until the end of the fiscal year terminating June 1, 1937.

Cortelyou said immediate action was necessary, if the government allotment for tree-planting was to be secured. After discussion, the matter went over for one meeting.

Apparent discrimination against local taxicab companies was made the subject of discussion. Henry Bechtold, representing the Laguna Beach Taxi service, asked that the city council rescind the rule requiring separate and additional taxes upon all taxicabs, more than one, operated for hire under the ordinance governing such enterprises. Bechtold stated that a business license of $15 should, if his point be well taken, cover the operations of the license, regardless of the number of taxis operated. Apparent inequalities, in the ordinance, in that trucking companies, for instance, paid but one license regardless of number of units employed, were pointed out. After discussion with City Attorney Milburn G. Harvey and consultation over the ordinance itself, it was conceded by councilmen that Bechtold's grievance was well founded. Accordingly, the ordinance will be amended so as to require the payment of but one license.

The Business and Professional Women's club, in a communication protested against the practice of littering streets and premises with "throwaway" advertising sheets, and asked that council adopt an ordinance prohibiting the practice complained of. In the discussion which followed reading of the complaint, it was stated by Councilman Mallow that an ordinance was being drafted that would have the desired effect.

Attempts to commercialize boxing and kindred sports in Laguna Beach are doomed to failure, according to statements made by members of city council. Attempts recently made to enlist the sponsorship of the Laguna Beach fire department or American Legion post 222 have been unsuccessful, the promoter failing to interest either body in his plans, it was stated. The Rev. Raymond I. Brahm, addressing the council, related how attempts had been made to misstate his position in the matter, and made it plain that while he was heartily in favor of boxing and similar sports, he was opposed to commercialization of the pastimes. He pointed out that plans were now in process of formation, looking towards properly-supervised boxing, under qualified instructors, at the new gymnasium to be built on the high school grounds.

Liquor Ban Sought By Laguna Beach

LAGUNA BEACH, March 19.—At the instance of Councilman L. F. Mallow, a resolution was introduced at the council session last night, asking the state liquor control authorities not to grant any further liquor licenses in Laguna Beach. It was pointed out by Mallow that far too many establishments had been licensed to retail liquors. Under present system of permit-granting, local authorities have no real jurisdiction over those to whom licenses are granted.

The resolution, adopted unanimously, was ordered transmitted to the state authorities.

TOBY RYAN, 19, works behind the jewelry counter of a large Manhattan department store. She poses for a photograph to be used in a store advertisement and MARTY HIATT, the photographer, tells her she has a "camera face."

Toby goes to dinner with BILL BLAKE, who works in an advertising agency.

A few days later Toby loses her job, due to the selecting of Jeanne MAURINE HALL, also employed in the jewelry department. Toby's efforts to find another job are fruitless. Then she meets Marty Hiatt again. He sends her to BEN BLAKE, manager of a model agency. Blake tells her that in order to register as a model she must have photographs.

Toby, lacking $25 to have the photographs made, says she has changed her mind.

CHAPTER VIII

BEN BLAKE said, "Do you mean you've changed your mind or you haven't the money?"

Toby met his gaze. "I haven't the $25," she said. "Even if I had a job, a regular one—and I haven't—it would take months for me to save that much. I'll just have to forget about it. I'm sorry."

"Wait a minute," Blake interrupted. "Maybe we can do something about this."

"But, Mr. Blake—"

He did not seem to hear her. Picking up the telephone, he said to the operator, "Get Marty Hiatt on the wire for me."

Toby exclaimed insistently, "Oh, I couldn't ask him—"

Blake raised one hand, silencing her. "You let me handle this," he said. "Shh down."

Toby obeyed. A minute later Blake was speaking into the telephone again. "Marty?" he said. "How're you? Yes—yes, I've been talking to her. She's here now." For several moments he listened, now and then making monosyllabic answers. Presently, he said, "Listen, Marty, are you doing that Worthington job? You are? Well, here's what I was thinking about. How about using Miss Ryan as that job and, instead of paying her, let her have some of the photographs? Could you do that? Well, I thought—yes, sure. Yes. Wait a minute; I'll ask her—"

Blake turned to Toby. "Marty says he can use you on a job this afternoon. He's willing to let you have some of the pictures instead of paying you. Is that all right?"

"Oh, yes, Mr. Blake!"

"Could you go over to his studio this afternoon?"

"I can go any time."

BLAKE spoke into the telephone again. "It's all right, Marty," he said. "She'll be there. What time do you want her? Four o'clock. Okay. Thanks, Marty. I'll be seeing you in a day or so. Yes—goodbye."

He put down the telephone, pushing it aside. "Well," he said, "that's that. Hiatt will make the pictures and turn them over to me. Of course I can't promise that we're going to be able to get you work as a model. It all depends on how well you photograph. The pictures will be the test."

Toby said, "I don't know how to thank you—"

"Never mind about that," Blake cut in. "Wait until we see how those pictures turn out. Hiatt wants you at his studio at four o'clock. He glanced at his wrist watch. 'You've a little time yet. Maybe there're some questions you want to ask about this business.'"

"There are," Toby admitted. "You see, I don't know anything about it at all."

"Well," Blake crossed one knee over the other and settled back

Toby turned the pages. There were girls of all types—blond and brunet, tall and snail, girls who were "the outdoor type" and girls who were like orchids.

comfortably. "In the first place, the regular price for modeling is $5 an hour. That's for photographic work. Artists' models pose three hours for $5. That's why most of the girls would rather work for photographers. Some girls—the ones most in demand—are paid three and four times the regular rate. We have six on our lists who have yearly contracts with a cigarette company that pays them $1,000 not to pose for any other cigarette manufacturer. Besides the $1,000, the girls are paid for all the modeling they do, and they can work for as many other advertisers as they please—but no other cigarette company. Some of these girls earn as much as $5,000 and $6,000 a year. Of course there aren't many of them. I believe I forgot to tell you that we charge 10 per cent of all fees for our services."

He reached for a large leather-bound book on the corner of his desk, and handed it to Toby. "Here," he said, "is our model book. Maybe you'd like to look through it."

TOBY opened the book and turned the pages. Each was made up of reproductions of photographs. There were girls of all types—blond and brunet; tall and aristocratic-looking; small and vivacious; girls who looked like "the outdoor type" and girls who were like orchids; girls posing in evening wraps, in bathing suits, in riding habits.

"What do these letters mean?" Toby asked, pointing to a line that read "A-B-E-H-L-M-N-O-P."

"That's a code," Blake told her. "For convenience. A means 'Camera experience.' O means that particular girl has beautiful legs. Some models are willing to pose in bathing suits, lingerie and so on, and others are not. Some will do medicinal advertising and some won't. The code tells. These books go to photographic studios and advertising agencies. From it, they select the models they want for their work. We get in touch with the girls, make appointments and do the rest. See how it works?"

Toby nodded. "I'm beginning to," she said. "Mr. Blake, do you really think I can do it—pose, like these other girls—"

He smiled. "I'll tell you after I've seen those photographs," he said. "But you'd better be getting along now. Know where Hiatt's studio is?"

She said she did not and Blake told her how to reach the place. She found the studio and entered without hesitation. A girl sitting at a desk, looked up and asked whom she wished to see.

Toby said, "I want to see Mr. Hiatt. I'm Toby Ryan."

"Oh, yes, Miss Ryan," the girl said quickly. "Go right on in. He's expecting you."

Toby entered a large room, unfurnished except for a curious assortment of chairs, a bench and table at one end. There was a camera, facing a small raised platform. On either side of the platform were lights such as those Toby had seen when she posed for the photographs at Bergman's.

A tall young man was working away over one of the lights. He raised his head and Toby asked hesitantly, "Is Mr. Hiatt here?"

The tall young man motioned toward a door. "Back there," he said. "He'll be in a minute or so."

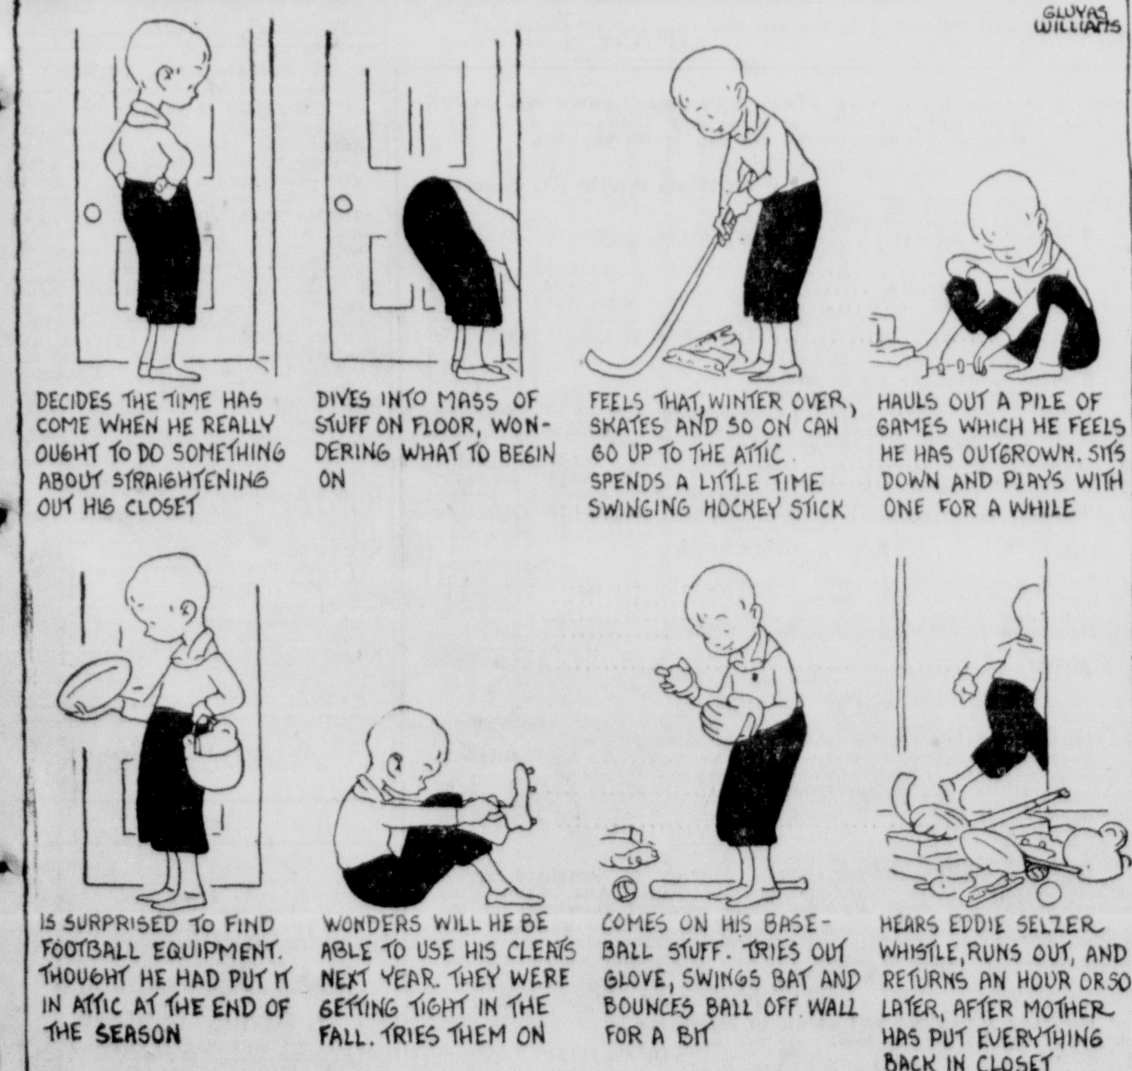

TOBY waited. Presently Marty Hiatt, coatless, his sleeves rolled to the elbows and his red hair somewhat ruffled, appeared. "Hello," he said, addressing Toby. "So you got here."

"I hope I'm not late—"

Hiatt said, "You're on time all

"ARE WE CIVILIZED?"

Even the nation's headlines must have their fling at emulating their hoary ancestors of ages past. Witness, for example, George White's scandal, the most recent one, with Rudy Vallee. How surprisingly often we prove that to err is human, to forgive, divine, and that none of us is or can be divine. "I belted him on the face and jaws," sang old White with satisfaction. And Hyman Bushel, Vallee's attorney, answered: "Rudy would have killed him if they hadn't stopped the fight."

No wonder the public of the world takes to those boxing matches which provide the most bloodshed; bull-fighting; war. Uncivilized? Yes, you say. But what has civilization to do with human emotions? Nothing—yet. The only possible reason for success of wrestling is that men like to hear other men grunt and growl after the fashion of the emotional, unthinking, unreasoning ancients—and the wrestlers, showmen all, know it.

Who said we are becoming more civilized? Don't be so optimistic. But perhaps you may dare hope that your children's grandchildren, to a degree, will have better control of mind over emotion.

THE "YES" MAN

If there is any person of whom one should beware, it is the "yes man"—the man who agrees with you in order to curry your favor and satisfy your vanity and get your good will.

Any employer who surrounds himself with a group of "yes men" can never accomplish very much and, sooner or later, is doomed.

Probably one of the causes of our present condition is that the American newspapers have largely been "yes newspapers." They were for everything for everybody, if it made them temporarily popular and got a temporary subscription. This "yes business" did not develop sound thinking. The result is that public opinion created unnatural and artificial laws and stifled development and progress. When someone does not agree with you, the last thing in the world you want to do is to get "sore" at him. If you are convinced that he is wrong, you are performing a great service to him, if you will explain what will be the eventual results if his theories are carried out. A real man is always glad when he is licked in an argument—licked in a discussion—because then he is learning something and is under great obligation to the party who is taking the time and patience to point out his errors in thought.

If you want to progress and develop, be careful not to associate too much with "yes men."

On the other hand, the man who is always disagreeing and taking exceptions in minor points for the purpose of showing how smart he is can never be of very great assistance to anyone. If you can analyze the individual to find out whether he is talking to convince you how smart he is or to enlighten you, then you will know whether to give much thought to what he says. Of the two men, probably the "yes man" will do you a lot more harm than the man who is always talking to show off. At any rate, be on your guard for the "yes man" with whom you come in contact.

FEDERAL BURLESQUE

If your radio dials happened to be twisted just right the other night, you were among those "privileged" to listen in on another travesty in the federal government's comedy or planning. We do not know whether it was intended to be comedy or education.

The New Deal went on the air with one of a series of burlesque programs into which the tax-spenders have tossed $75,000 for another federal project.

Listeners were enlightened (?) by silly answers to such questions as how many feet has a Caucasian, and do you think a croquet would make a good wife?

One wonders what time on the air costs the administration and just how much good is done to relieve unemployment.

To the average listener, it's a bit difficult to figure out just what the New Deal is trying to do with this so-called radio project. Perhaps it will turn into political propaganda as the campaign grows, just as federal writers' project workers throughout the land are checking up the situation and sounding out political outlooks for the information of powers-that-be in Washington.

When $75,000 is spent on federal radio programs of a type such as this project, one wishes that some of the wasted money could have gone, for instance, to solve the problem of the young California mother who was forced to give away her two babies because she was unable to buy for them the bare necessities of life.

Perhaps the same reasoning is behind this broadcast, and it will be about as helpful as the "education in national planning" program entailed in the project that will cost $20,000 for governmental public forums here in Santa Ana.

WHIPPING FATHER TIME

Whipping Father Time more and more has become the major problem for many of us who may not even live to see tomorrow because some dastardly, scheming, uncontrolled automobile has our Number. And Father Time smiles.

In the United States, we have the finest doctors, the latest, best remedies for those insidious germ ailments which once seemed always to keep men on a dangerous defensive; we have the safest homes; we have the best foods; we have the variety of pleasures necessary to make and keep us happy.

We have reached the nearest to a civilized state which it will be our privilege to enjoy until men cease warfare; until chiseling is but a term used in statue making; until food is no longer destroyed to keep prices up, but is preserved, either directly or through lowered prices, for those who starve in a land of plenty; until men lose a major portion of Self in a Service to others.

Yet with all of our advancement, we sit idly by, perhaps waiting without knowing it, for that dastardly, scheming, uncontrolled automobile which has our Number. Great scientists fight germ ailments with indefatigable courage. Ordinary men or great scientists but talk of traffic control and traffic safety. Talk, only talk, of the most deadly disease in the country today as though it were inevitable and incurable. If it were more than talk, the results would show differently. They would not show, if we were immunized from the traffic disease, that the disease killed 51,200 men, women and children during an 18 months' period in this country, 600 more than the number of American soldiers killed in the 18 months of fighting in the World war.

We were recently reminded of the scores of thoughts expressed regarding traffic control when a friend expressed a new thought upon it. He said simply, we must prohibit from city streets, all red neon signs which are not used in regulation of traffic. He simply pointed out that the flood of neon signs is comparable with the fabled youth who cried "wolf" too often. He suggested a law allowing any color on neon advertisements except red.

Did you ever ride down a city street and wonder as you looked ahead to the next block, he asked, whether that was a red stop-sign which blinked or the flash of a neon-lighted beer parlor, motion picture theater or neat little shoe-shine parlor?

We have all of the good traffic control ideas we need. Let us now hunt down several great traffic scientists, put them in a laboratory and keep them there until they conquer the deadly disease of uncontrolled traffic.

A MOMENTOUS RULING

The ruling of the Federal Trade Commission restraining the selling of tires to Sears Roebuck at less than to other dealers for like service and handed down this month against the Goodyear Tire and Rubber Company of Akron, Ohio, is a decision of the greatest importance. The order directs the Goodyear company to file with the Commission, within thirty days from March 5th, a report in writing stating in detail the manner in which the order will be complied with and conformed to.

This is a rather new decision, to have the Federal Trade Commission issue a ruling that a large corporation, that is not a utility, cannot sell for less to one purchaser than to another on the ground that it has a tendency to create a monopoly and, thus, in the long run, to work against the consumer. At the hearing, it was brought out that the Goodyear Tire and Rubber Company had assigned to Sears Roebuck 18,000 shares of Goodyear Common Stock and also paid over to Sears $800,000 in cash to be used in the purchase of 32 additional shares of Goodyear Common Stock, as a condition for the signing of the contract, without opening it to competition.

The ruling will undoubtedly be contested and probably will not end until it reaches the Supreme Court. If the government has a right, through the commission, to regulate the comparative price of an article in one case, it probably would have the right to regulate it in another.

When discriminations of this kind are going on, it certainly results in very unfair competition and it is hard to understand why a corporation would enter into such an agreement unless the officers in charge were receiving some special benefit from the contract.

It seems that the Directors of the Goodyear Tire and Rubber Company had employed the manager, Mr. Litchfield, on a salary and condition based on the total volume of business. This of course, would make it to the management's advantage to sell as much as he could without regard to profit or loss. Sooner or later, managements that have contracts like this, wreck the company. You cannot work for two masters and be successful with both of them.

Editor Register:

Kindly permit me the use of your valuable space to answer a most bitter and unwarranted attack upon the Bible, which appeared in your news columns March 16 under the head, "Bible Has Led World Astray, Says Minister." I refer to the synopsis of a sermon delivered by the Rev. Edwin O. Colbeck at the Y. M. C. A.

I feel constrained to answer the Rev. Mr. Colbeck, not because I believe he has said anything new; he hasn't. He is merely restating opinions which have been voiced by the foes of the Bible time and again since the days of Christ. He is only the faint echo of a Voltair and an Ingersoll. Now I believe that the Bible needs a defense against such periclit attacks. God's Word can well take care of itself. The Book which has triumphed over the bloody persecutions of Rome and the artful opposition of men, whose learning, ability, and influence transcends that of the Rev. Mr. Colbeck as far as the light of the sun transcends the light of a pocket flashlight, will certainly weather this tempest in a teapot. But I am concerned lest some honest soul be misled—by the lack of an answer—to accept unfounded assertion and hold misstatement for wellfounded fact and undoubted truth.

The Rev. Mr. Colbeck said: "Jesus dared to question the infallibility of the sacred book." That is not true as these words of Jesus bear record; Matt. 5:17: "Think not that I come to destroy the Law and the Prophets; I am not come to destroy, but to fulfill"; John 10:35: "The Scriptures (the Old Testament Writings) cannot be broken"; Luke 16:17: "It is easier for heaven and earth to pass, than one tittle of the Law to fall" (tittle is one of the smallest marks in the Jewish system of writing); on the way to Emmaus after His resurrection, "beginning at Moses and all the prophets He (Jesus) expounded unto them the (the two) scriptures"; again the Old Testament Writings (the things concerning Himself); Luke 24:27. Do these exact words of Jesus give anyone the right to say that "Jesus dared to question the infallibility of the sacred book?"

The Rev. Mr. Colbeck said: "He (Jesus) stated that Moses wrote many things which did not agree with the divine plan." Jesus testified to the Jews: "Had ye believed Moses ye would have believed me, for he wrote of me"; John 5:46. To the two disciples on the way to Emmaus the risen Jesus said, "O fools, and slow of heart to believe all that the prophets have spoken." Luke 24:25. Jesus appeals to Moses and the Prophets as unimpeachable witnesses to the divine authority of His person and work. Would Jesus have done so, if Moses had written without full agreement with God's plan?

Says the Rev. Mr. Colbeck: "He (Jesus) reiterated the inerrant record." Jesus did not reiterate the inerrant record, but He did clear away the rubbish of human interpretation which had accumulated during the centuries and had completely obscured the true meaning of those sacred writings. Read the fifth chapter of Matthew's Gospel, where Jesus in the Sermon on the Mount repeatedly sets His own "I say unto you" over against that which "was said by them of old time." Jesus interpreted the Law in opposition to the misinterpretations of men.

The Rev. Mr. Colbeck quotes John 12:48 as follows: "He that rejecteth me and my words will not contact social justice. My words will judge you—not the Bible." Now read Jesus' words as John has recorded them: "He that rejecteth me and receiveth not my words, hath one that judgeth him: The word that I have spoken, the same shall judge him in the last day." The least one has a right to expect of a preacher is simple honesty! Another glaring example of dishonest quotation is this: "I am the truth—not the sacred book." Jesus said, "I am the way, the truth, and the life, no man cometh unto the Father but by me," John 14:6. If the Rev. Mr. Colbeck wishes to interpret the words of Jesus he may do so, but then common courtesy and plain honesty require him to refrain from placing them in quotation marks, as he has done.

"Mistakes and contradictions in the record." The same old story! Greater men have reconciled every so-called mistake and contradiction by an unprejudiced examination of the facts.

Jesus has already passed sentence upon such preachers when He said, "Ye do err, not knowing the Scriptures." Matt. 22:29; "They be blind leaders of the blind." Matt. 15:14.

No, the Bible has not led the world astray. It is those men who in their proud conceit set themselves up as infallible critics of the Bible, and exalt their own ideas above the wisdom of God.

After supper ma was pushing crooked things strate and strate things crooked, saying to pop, I've decided on goldfish instead of another canary, Willyum.

What, again? pop said, and ma said, I mean finally. The only question is, Willyum, shall I get one fairly large goldfish or several fairly small ones?

It seems like a good question, I hope you'll be able to answer it, pop said, and ma said, But Willyum, I mean I want your help. The man at the fish and bird store thawt 5 or 6 mite be a good number, but it seems to me there mite be jellissy and dissention among them, where-as just one goldfish would be monarch of all he surveys so he could not have any cause for dissatisfaction, she said.

Unless you forget to feed him, pop said. And besides, don't you think if you had several they mite be company and inspiration for each other, and teach each other different strokes, and all that? he said, and ma said, But Willyum, practically everybody has several gold fish, but how many people do you know with just one?

If we continued not having any at all it would make us still more conspicuous at even less trouble and expense, pop said, and ma said, Now Willyum I want goldfish and the only question is their singular or plural number, so what do you think, Willyum?

I've always been opposed to solitary confinement, so let them abound, pop said. Meaning plural, and ma said, But Willyum, I read the most intristing article on Japanese floral decorations and how they can make the most attractive and suggestive arrangements with just one flower in a bowl, so why isn't the same thing possible with one goldfish?

Why indeed, and let that be my last contribution to the subject, pop said, and ma said, O Willyum, I knew I could count on your good taste so I've already bawt one, a kind of a round one in a square bowl, the man's going to deliver it tomorrow morning.

It's a wimmis world, pop said. Saying it from in back of the sporting page.

OUR CHILDREN

By ANGELO PATRI

CHILDISH LYING

Children do tell lies if by lies one means statements that are not literal truths. These lies are of different sorts. Some are artistic, creations of the mind that is yearning for a flight beyond actuality. That flight is necessary for the health of the mind and unless the child's environment offers relief from the drabness of daily routine he is likely to invent another sort out of his imagination. If he lacks creative imagination he is likely to commit acts that are startling, such as setting fires, hiding himself to get the thrill of the search for him, running away. Any program of child training ought to provide for the relief of pressure caused by rule and regulation.

Creative play helps greatly. A little child who has a supply of hats, coats and capes, feathers, dress-up things, and a place to store and use them, and an audience or a group of playfellows, has an almost perfect outlet for his creative needs. These materials need not be accurate copies of originals. A broom horse, a few boxes, colored paper, blunt sticks will dress an army or array a royal group. Imagination works the miracle that is needed. Let it have its way.

There are other sorts of lies, not so easily nor so happily treated. The defense lie, the one used to protect the child from blame, is hard to outroot. Unless the fear that fathers it is removed the lie will continue to be its expression. "But I have never given the child cause to fear me." You do not know what causes the fear. Sometimes a child fears to fall from the standard of perfection his people have set for him. He tries to maintain it and lies to do so whenever he feels the threat of failure bearing down upon him. Fear of blame by children who long to be blameless in the eyes of teachers and parents often causes lies. Children of weak constitutions are usually filled with fear because they are uncertain of their power. A lie bolsters them up for the time being. The best treatment for this sort of lying is a health program. Fun, free play in the open air. Affectionate care without petting. Let the child know he is loved, but don't teach him that he is going to be hated. Prolonged childhood is usually accompanied by childish boasting and lying. A strict health routine is necessary. Plenty of rest, sufficient sleep, proper diet are very important. Still more important to this sort of child is work in which he can succeed.

We make a mistake when we teach a child that the work we select for him is THE thing for him to do and failure to do it is a major failure in him. We must allow the child to find his own work and then stand back and give him room to do it. We spoil our own chances of success if we sigh and say, "Yes, but you know you are very deficient in arithmetic. Couldn't you lay this aside for a time and put some more work on problems?" Again we have plunged the child, who has had a dim hope of success, into failure. Fear, untruthfulness, evasive expressions of all sorts are certain to be his refuge.

The psychopathic lie is one that must be treated by experts. It is caused by disease, and the disease must be cured by the physicians. Don't hesitate to call them into consultation if you find a child has retreated from actual life and surrounds himself with a fabric of unreality. It is illness, and calls for first rate medical aid. This sort of lies differs so in character from the others that even the most inexperienced know that it is serious. The whole child is involved which is not the case with the other sorts. Study the child who lies and move carefully to his cure. (Copyright, 1936, The Bell Syn., Inc.) WASHINGTON, March 19.—Rejection by the senate of a proposal to spend $20,000,000 on a Florida ship canal and three other WPA projects marks a new turn in the spending epoch. There is more involved than a 39 to 34 vote on the merits of a canal project. It is the recapture, in this instance at least by congress of its right to say how public money shall be expended.

Originally, President Roosevelt allocated $5,000,000 to the Florida ship canal. Senator Vandenberg of Michigan insists that this $5,000,000 is valueless unless $195,000,000 more is spent to complete the canal. The test came when $5,000,000 would be supplemented by $12,000,000 for the coming year. The Michigan senator has conducted a fight against the proposal and he was persuasive enough to break down party lines in support of his contention that the extra money should not be spent.

The canal is a matter of sharp controversy between residents of North and South Florida anyway, but the awkwardness of the situation is that the nation as a whole had no chance to pass on the project through its chosen representatives in the congress, but found itself committed to $5,000,000 of work by the action of the chief executive.

There are some indications that Mr. Roosevelt may have regretted the step he took, for he told the press recently that future appropriations would have to be approved by congress. Indeed, the whole difficulty with $4,800,000 which was voted to the President to be used at his discretion was that groups in different sections of the country were able to put pressure on the White House and the government departments which never would have been effective had it been necessary to convince a majority of both houses of congress.

The argument in favor of presidential discretion was that congress would waste the fund and that projects would be voted which were the result of log-rolling agreements among the members. But it turns out that local pressure was even stronger and was aided by sectional groups of congressmen.

The Florida ship canal project is the first to run up against the economy wave which is in the offing and which bids fair to assume considerable proportions before the end of the present session of congress. The principle that large projects should be voted by congress and not by the executive out of a huge fund is bound to become the center of controversy as some members who have had money spent through the WPA in their respective states for particular developments now attempt to secure additional funds.

What Senator Vandenberg did was to expose to the full view of the senate and the country the dangers of unlimited appropriations. The possibility that the Michigan senator was beginning to see a real campaign issue in the making undoubtedly influenced some of the Democratic members who voted against the extra appropriation. For, while several charges of waste have been made from time to time, the Florida ship canal was such a concrete demonstration of how wasteful the WPA has been that it began to make a deep impression on senators of both parties. It is probable that other projects will undergo similar scrutiny.

The senate is beginning to do at last some of the things it might have been doing a year ago. From the standpoint of the taxpayer, it is better late than never. It is a safe assumption that the huge size of the deficits has been instrumental in awakening even the New Dealers to a realization that borrowing could not go on indefinitely for the purpose of building unproductive projects or projects that were clearly unnecessary from the standpoint of economic value.

It is natural that cities and areas where the money is to be spent will staunchly defend the expenditures, but what apparently has been unrealized to any great extent is that many of the work relief projects have not been temporary affairs but that they involve permanent undertakings which commit the government to continued expense over a period of years unless the initial investment is to be written off as a total loss.
